

ROMMEL SMASHES ON TOWARD EGYPT; REDS FORCED ON DEFENSIVE AT KHARKOV

Navy Institutes Convoys For East Coast Shipping

Escort Setup Operating for Past 30 Days

WASHINGTON, June 22.—(AP)—Merchant ships plying the submarine-haunted waters of the United States east coast are now moving in convoys protected by small, fast warships, the Navy disclosed officially today.

The convoy system has been in operation "for approximately the past 30 days," an announcement said, and although official amplification of the terse announcement was lacking, indications were that the system would be expanded as rapidly as new antisubmarine craft become available for service.

Once these craft are on hand in sufficient numbers, convoys may be expected to operate not only in coastal waters from Maine to Florida, but also inside the Gulf of Mexico, the Caribbean Sea and other areas where the U-boats in recent weeks have found numerous targets for their torpedoes.

290 Ships Now Lost.
Total announced shipping losses of the United States and Allied Nations on the American side of the Atlantic since the war began now stand at 290 tankers, freighters and other merchant ship types. While 120 of those vessels were attacked off the U. S. east coast, 87 of the sinkings occurred in the Caribbean and 21 in the Gulf. Of the remainder, 25 were sunk off Canada and 17 off South America.

East coast convoys apparently were ordered by the Navy high command after about four months of hurried preparations—U-boats first appeared in mid-January—in construction of a variety of subsucker ships ranging from 83-foot "mosquito" boats to 183-foot vessels, all armed with depth charges.

Escorts of these craft, augmented when necessary by blimps and planes, have been described as especially effective in combating subs attacking with torpedoes.

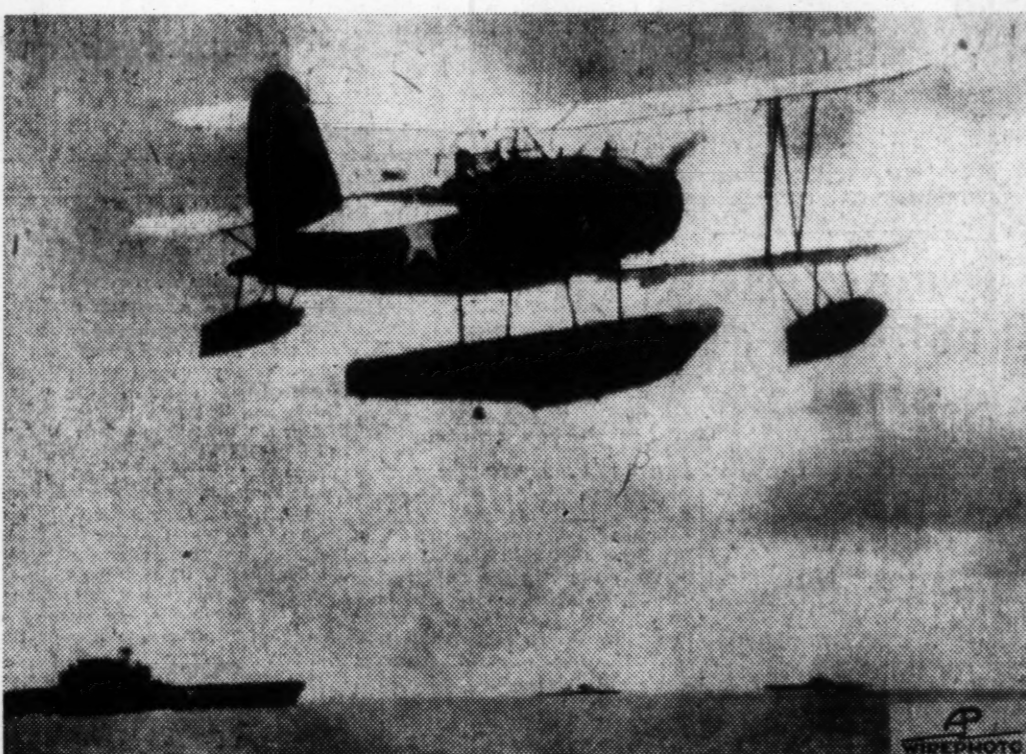

Ready For Action.
Their great advantage lies in the fact that being on hand when the attack occurs they can go into action with depth charges immediately.

Moreover, shelling of an escorted merchant ship would be extremely risky business for a submarine, although that is the most economical method of attack against unprotected merchantmen.

Officials, therefore, conservatively predict that the convoy system will have the result of greatly reducing the number of successful U-boat assaults in the areas so protected. Yet attacks may be expected to continue and in some instances to be successful because, authorities say, there is no way of thwarting the under-sea raiders entirely.

Mine Defense Different.
The problem of protecting shipping against mines planted by submarines is generally regarded as requiring different tactics, and for this work it is expected that patrols by blimps, planes and surface ships must be continued.

State Receipts Come On, Students: From Gas Tax Kyser's Show Today

Today's the big day... and this noon is the time to be downtown! Yep—the Ol' Professor himself—Kay Kyser and his Kollege of Musical Knowledge will preside over the rip-roaring free show at the Kyser Bond show.

Just you be there—near the bandstand which will be erected at the intersection of Peachtree and Forsyth streets in front of Loe's Grand theater between 12:30 and 1:30 o'clock this afternoon—and get set for a solid hour of solid jive.

You know your hosts by now: The Atlanta Constitution and the United States Treasury Department. You must have guessed what the idea is: To give you one time of your life, and to drum up sales of war bonds and stamps.

The grandstand is being built by Loe's Grand, as its contribution to the Kyser Bond show.

There's no limit to the audience capacity in this "theater." The show's free, and all Atlanta can crowd in if they're so inclined, up and down Peachtree and Forsyth streets.

Kyser, the bespectacled "professor" of stage, screen and radio fame, is currently on a tour of the country in the interest of war bond sales, and is putting on his radio shows from different Army camps and posts. His show here will precede two performances at Fort McPherson.

When the popular band leader shouts, "come on, chillun, let's dance!" in the southern drawl he's made so popular all over the nation, his whole gang and all the old favorites will be along.

Dorothy Dunn, Trudy Erwin and Julie Conway will furnish the allure of beauty and talent to the going-on, while the simple Simon Continued on Page 5, Column 4.

Blood Donor Center Open 5 Days a Week

For lack of a little blood, the lives of American soldiers may be lost. The Red Cross announced yesterday that the blood donor center at 848 Peachtree street now is open five days a week and that it has facilities for 60 persons a day. Army doctors are in charge. Appointments can be made in person from 10 to 4 o'clock every weekday except Saturday. Appointments also can be made by telephone through Atwood 1601.

Fury of Battle For Sevastopol Mounts Hourly

MOSCOW, Tuesday, June 23.—(AP)—The Germans renewed their offensive on the Kharkov front Monday and 400 miles to the south forced Sevastopol's beleaguered garrison to fall back on two sectors, official reports said early today.

The midnight Soviet communiqué indicated the smashing German attacks against the hard-pressed Crimean naval base continued unabated.

The fighting on the Kharkov front had been on a reduced scale for the past few days, with the Russians counterattacking at some points, but the communiqué said the initiative was again in the hands of the Germans.

"On June 22 our troops on the Kharkov front waged battle against attacking German troops," the high command said.

Defenders Thrust Back.
Earlier reports said the Russian defenders of Sevastopol had been thrust back both from the north and south, despite their stubborn resistance which cost the Germans thousands of lives.

The rising crescendo of battle ushered in Russia's second year of war.

Dispatches from the Black sea bastion said that a huge mass of infantry, tanks and artillery had driven a wedge in the northern fortifications but that the defenders were resisting fiercely.

On the south where the Russians had withdrawn to their central lines, a heavy battle was under way for a hill dominating the sector. The Germans tried five times to drive the defenders from the crest, dispatches said, but each assault was turned back by the deadly fire of mortars, machine guns and rifles.

Street Fighting Reported.
(The gravity of the situation was pointed up by a Vichy dispatch, heard in London by Reuters, which said that street fighting had begun in Sevastopol and that a number of the defenders had embarked on transports. The Germans said officially the entire region above Sevastopol bay in the north had been cleared with the capture of the lone remaining coastal fort.

"On the rest of the investing front German and Rumanian troops, supported by the Luftwaffe, have assaulted and captured several forts and strongly defended heights," the German communiqué said.)

German casualties have been estimated above 100,000, but still the enemy came on with crushing numbers of men and machines. As the battle intensity increased, German Naval units were reported off the fortress, base of the Russian Black sea fleet whose sailors are helping its defense.

Nazi Ships Sighted.
Two swift torpedo cutters and a submarine—dispatched either from occupied Odessa or the Balkan coast—were reported sighted by two small Russian rowboats. One of the cutters was reported damaged and towed away, and the submarine was said to have crash-dived before machinegun fire.

Morgenthau recalled that Blackmer was alleged to have been the "pay-off" man in attempting to obtain the sale of government oil lands to private oil companies.

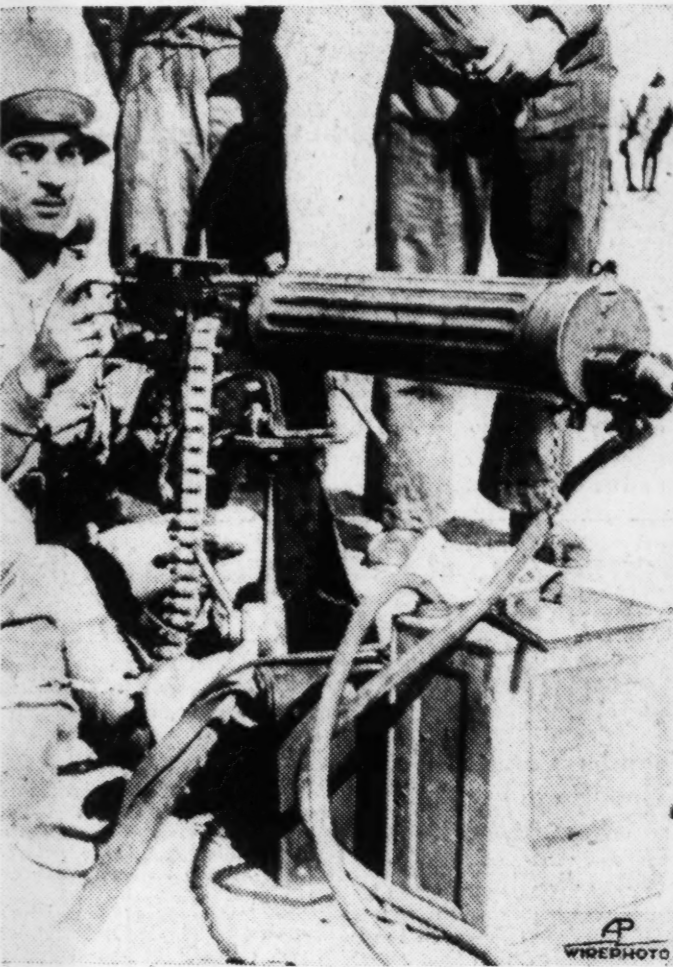

Blackmer left the country in 1921 when he was sought as a principal witness against Secretary of the Interior Albert Fall, who was convicted and sent to prison for accepting a bribe in connection with the oil fraud. He lived in France for a number of years, foiling numerous attempts to extradite him to the United States, and he is believed now to be in Switzerland.

In connection with efforts to uncover resources of Axis agents and sympathizers, the Treasury has been making a systematic search of all assets in this country belonging to persons living abroad. The Blackmer accounts in New York were traced back and finally identified as belonging to him although they did not bear his name.

For the present these accounts have been "frozen." This means that they may not be drawn on without permission from the Treasury.

In addition, Morgenthau ordered an investigation to determine whether Blackmer owes the United States any income taxes, or fines that could be collected from these accounts. The Justice and Interior Departments were notified of the discovery for similar reasons.

The Treasury was able to "freeze" Blackmer's accounts because, although still a United States citizen, he had been living in France and can be regarded technically as a "national" of France.

EGYPTIAN ON GUARD—A well-trained Egyptian army of 40,000 regulars and 100,000 guardsmen stood ready yesterday to meet Erwin Rommel's Afrika Korps in defense of their national border. This Egyptian soldier is manning a Vickers gun "somewhere in the desert."

10,000,000 Permanent Gas Nazi Casualties Rationing To Listed by Reds Start July 22

MOSCOW, Tuesday, June 23.—(AP)—The Germans have lost 10,000,000 men killed, wounded and taken prisoner in the first year of the war with Russia, against Soviet losses of 4,500,000, the Soviet information bureau announced today in a year-end review.

Of the total German casualties, at least 3,500,000 were killed, the announcement said.

It gave the German plane losses at 20,000 craft compared to 9,000 Russian and said the Nazis lost 24,000 tanks to Russia's 15,000.

The bureau said the Germans also lost 30,500 guns.

Seventy per cent of the Red army's wounded have returned to action, the announcement said, while Germany has been able to return only 40 per cent of her wounded to the ranks.

This discrepancy was attributed to the overworked German ambulance service, which had been geared for a "lightning war."

German official circles said on March 8 that Germany's casualties totaled 1,500,000, including killed, wounded and missing.

The last official German claims on Russian losses were made November 21 when it was stated 10,000,000 Soviet troops had been killed, wounded or captured.

The most recent Soviet casualty figures were given by the Soviet Information Bureau November 26 as 6,000,000 German casualties and 2,122,000 Russian losses.

Mobile Columns Clash in Region East of Tobruk

CAIRO, June 22.—(AP)—The Axis tanks and motorized infantry which hammered Tobruk into submission in two days of storm were massed tonight for assault on Egypt, barely 12 miles northwest of the border fort of Capuzzo.

British and German mobile columns already had clashed in the region of Sidi Azeiz, where, an RAF communiqué disclosed, "large numbers" of enemy transport vehicles, presumably carrying troops, were under attack by fighter-bombers and American-made Boston bombers of the South African air force.

The armored fight about Sidi Azeiz was joined when British units, which had been outside the Tobruk perimeter when it fell, got away to the south, then cut eastward to the new British line on the Egyptian frontier.

The danger to Egypt was increasing as succeeding communications, terse as they were, showed that Rommel intends to strike now at the frontier without pausing for rest and equipment.

Flanking Drive Seen.
Many observers felt that the Axis armored superiority, the direct result of a destructive battle between big German guns and British tanks nine days ago, was a greater menace than ever to the British. With the tanks they possess, the Axis forces may be able to sweep around the left flank of the British line, brushing aside the light tanks of the defenders, and strike northeastward toward the Nile valley.

Moreover, it was calculated that reinforcement by American forces "in Asia" would be impossible for two months and that if reinforcements had to be sent from the United States they could hardly take a hand in the battle in less than five months.

There were dismal indications that only a few of the British, South African and Indian troops making up the Tobruk garrison had escaped the enemy.

Four vessels with supplies escaped from the harbor while it was under shell fire and air attack, and some troops reached the British border lines after making their way through enemy formations, but their numbers are not large.

(The German high command said the Tobruk prisoners now total 28,000; that more than 100 tanks had been captured or destroyed, and that a group of eight small British ships which tried to escape from Tobruk had been destroyed by a German motor torpedo boat flotilla.)

Commander Captured.
(The Italians announced the capture of the Tobruk commander and five other British generals.)

The Axis now hold virtually all of Libya again, at least all the coastal region suitable for military advance.

Tobruk's main advantage to German Marshal Rommel is an excellent harbor with which to ease his supply problem for offensive eastward toward the Nile valley. He also seized another prize: a recently built extension of the desert railway to a point south of Tobruk. Some of this, however, was destroyed by the British troops.

MALTA DOWNS 10 PLANES.
VALETTA, Malta, June 22.—(AP)—Ten enemy planes were destroyed over Malta today and last night, two British communiqué disclosed today. Others were damaged.

Talmadge Has Proof N. Y. Most Illiterate

"I admit it," beamed Eugene Talmadge, Georgia's red-gallused Governor yesterday, "I'm an authority on illiteracy and Dr. John W. Studebaker, director of the U. S. Office of Education, is, too, and it's a funny thing, we both agree."

Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama and Georgia are among the states in the nation ranking high in illiteracy, according to 1930 census figures.

Agree on what? That New York is the most illiterate state in the nation, said the Governor. A few days ago Talmadge selected New York, with "all them foreigners up there," as the most illiterate state, and New York City's mayor, Fiorello LaGuardia, quickly jibed:

"When it comes to illiteracy, the distinguished Governor of Georgia talks as an expert and speaks for his own kind."

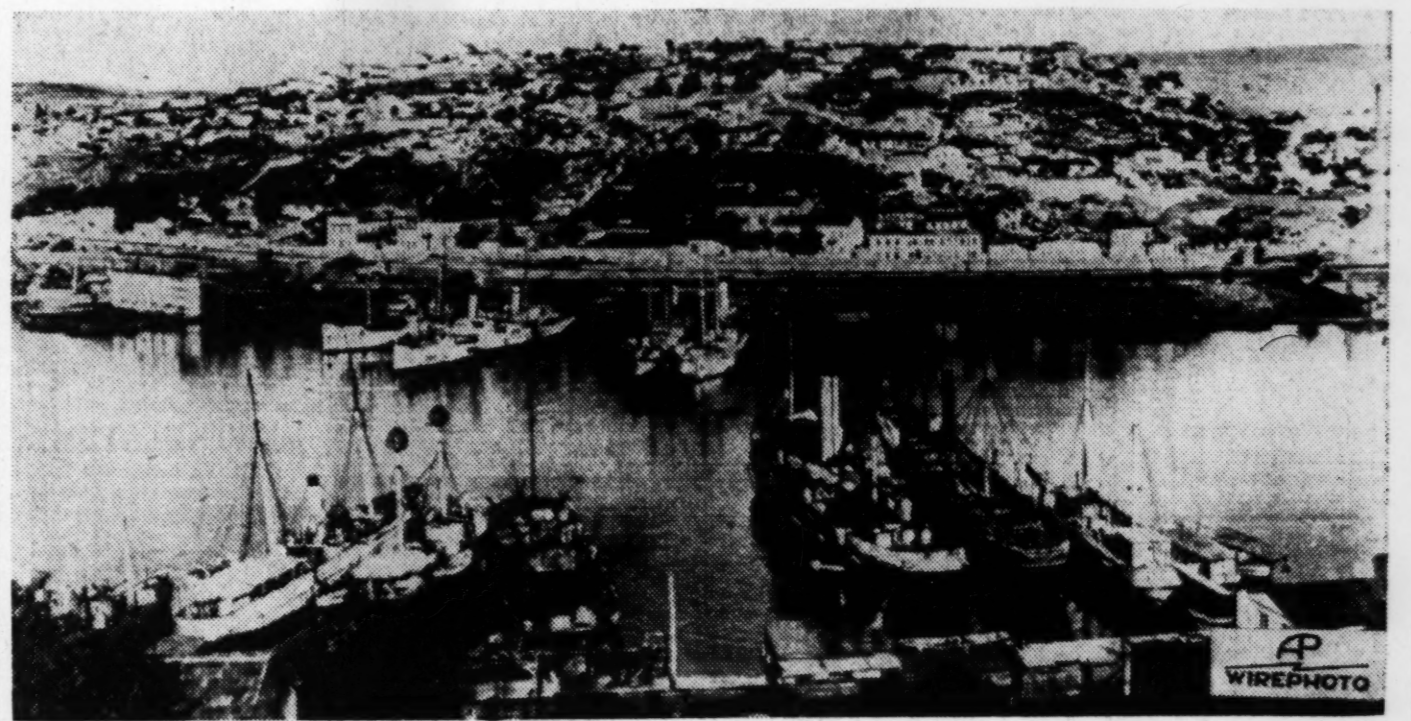

Yesterday he exhibited a magazine article in which Studebaker was quoted as saying that illiteracy is highest in New York state, with 1,020,000 illiterates. The federal educator ranked Pennsylvania second, Texas third, and Iowa lowest with 61,000.

"So, come again," Brother LaGuardia quipped Talmadge. The article Talmadge showed reporters did not mention Georgia or go into details as to percentage of illiteracy in the states named.

Defining an illiterate as any person over ten years of age who cannot write any language, the 1930 census showed Georgia with 9.4 per cent of its population illiterate, New York 3.7, Pennsylvania 3.1 and Iowa .8. Ohio, which Talmadge also rated high in illiteracy, had 2.3. The illiteracy information was not included in the 1940 census.

The census definition of illiteracy is not the one used by Talmadge, who said that he regarded anyone in this country as illiterate if he could not read and write English. The magazine article gave no indication as to the standard used by Dr. Studebaker in arriving at his figures.

WHERE MOST BITTER FIGHTING RAGES—This is a view of Sevastopol, important Crimean seaport which yesterday was hanging in the balance of a terrific German-Russian struggle. Dispatches indicated house-to-house fighting was in progress in some sectors, with the Soviets giving ground only at frightful cost to the Nazis.

Chinese Strike At Jap-Held Railway Towns

Enemy Held to Standstill For Six Days West Of Chekiang.

CHUNGKING, June 22.—(AP)—Strong Chinese assaults on the railway towns of Lungyu and Chushien, along the Japanese supply line through Chekiang province, were reported tonight in a Chinese communique which told of widespread Chinese activity behind the invaders' advanced positions.

In Kiangsu province, west of Chekiang, the Japanese have been held virtually to a standstill for six days in their attempts to pinch off the last 50 miles of the Chekiang-Kiangsi rail line remaining in Chinese hands, the communique said.

Chinese forces shunted aside by the swift Japanese thrust along the railway into Kiangsi province reorganized and were said to have driven outlying Japanese garrisons back upon Kihwa with heavy losses. Fighting was reported at the outskirts of Lungyu, and Japanese who occupied the walled town of Chushien were said to be under repeated attack.

Just west of the Chekiang-Kiangsi border heavy fighting was reported in the hills south of Kwangtung, where one Japanese column thrust toward the Fukien province border.

Georgia Vets Meet for 24th Annual Parley

Officers Are Elected By Forty and Eight At Savannah.

SAVANNAH, Ga., June 22.—(AP)—Georgia Legionnaires, veterans of the first World War, met for their twenty-fourth annual convention. Despite war prompted rationing restrictions a good attendance was reported.

The Rev. Ed Fain, Albany Methodist minister, addressed a joint meeting tonight of the Legion Auxiliary and Sons of the Legion. The meeting was presided over by State Commander Guy Stone, of Glenwood.

The parade this afternoon was enlivened by a detachment of soldiers from the Savannah Air base, marching with rifles of various sizes and makes and led by a squad of Army nurses in deep blue uniform.

The Parris Island Marine Corps band, Savannah Air Base band and Drum Corps from Atlanta, LaGrange and Savannah provided music for the marchers.

Brigadier General Eric Wood, of Fort Benning, is to address the convention Tuesday.

During the afternoon the Forty and Eight, playground of the Legion, held its week. The grand promenade was held to the morning.

Officers elected by the Forty and Eight are:

A. B. Cook, of Hawkinsville, chief de gare; M. Z. Browner, of Savannah, chef de train; J. B. Johnson, of Valdosta, conductor; Henry H. Green, of Atlanta, commissaire intendente; the Rev. Dan McCarthy, of Columbus, aumonier; H. P. Barnum Jr., of Augusta, garde de le portier; L. A. McCauley, of Albany, commiss voyageur; Dr. H. J. Carswell, of Waycross, of medicine; Dr. A. D. Williams, of Folkston, chemist nationale; G. U. Gates, of Waycross, chemist nationale alternate.

Toombs County Negro Gets Huge Fan Mail, Few Stamps.

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.

VIDALIA, Ga., June 22.—James Walter Wilson, Toombs county Negro, who at 117 years of age is the oldest human in the United States, according to the Federal Census Bureau, is also now a movie star.

Paramount Pictures sent a cameraman and a director to the Taylor farm in the Johnson Corner community, where Wilson makes his home, and completed a "reel" with James Walter as the headliner. The occasion was Wilson's birthday, the picturemen arriving a little late on account of their long trip from the New York studios.

James Walter was in good health and able to put on his best performance but is worried about one thing at this time. His fan mail is already heavy. White folks from all over the country are sending him letters of congratulation, many of them telling of the probability that "Wilson or his parents were once the property of their family, some sending tobacco or other personal gifts and others just writing.

The heaviest mail so far is from New Jersey, it was stated. Wilson, who neither reads nor writes, stated that Ernest Taylor, on whose place he lives, reads the letters for him and writes such answers as required. However, he is worried about the rapidly mounting United States post office costs. He stated that his old-age check does not run into such figures and if his fan mail writers want acknowledgment, why not include a stamp?

The Paramount film, which runs to about 350 feet, will no doubt increase the volume of letters received by the oldest.

Music-Loving Dog Gets Concrete Casket

COLUMBUS, Ga., June 22.—(AP)—Ted, the music-loving dog who greeted his owner's pupils at the door and listened to them practice, died of infirmity and they gave him a funeral befitting his talents.

Mrs. Effie Smith said the 18-year-old French poodle-fox terrier never howled when her pupils practiced. In a specially made casket, Ted was buried in a concrete grave framed in flowers. Young music students tried to carry the casket to the grave in Mrs. Smith's back yard, but it was too heavy. Spectators hung over the fence to witness the funeral.

Thomasville Considered as Hospital Site

Army Board To Inspect Location for Large Structure.

WASHINGTON, June 22.—(AP)—An Army board is expected shortly in Thomasville, Ga., to inspect the city as one of several possible sites for a 1,500-bed Army general hospital, an authoritative capital source indicated today.

A survey of Thomasville as a location for the hospital was requested by Senators George and Russell, Democrats, Georgia, and representative Cox, Democrat, Georgia.

There was no indication of the financial outlay such a hospital would represent.

Senate Yields; TVA Fund Bill To White House

Conferees Abandon McKellar's Plan and Bring Passage.

WASHINGTON, June 22.—(AP)—The senate late today formally receded from an amendment designed to strip the Tennessee Valley Authority of its revolving fund, and sent the $2,090,885,128 independent offices appropriations bill containing TVA funds to the White House.

Earlier in the day, the house had receded from an amendment designed to prohibit payment of any of the funds as salary to Goodwin Watson, head of the foreign broadcast section of the Federal Communications Commission.

The fight over the senate amendment, proposed by Senator McKellar, Democrat, Tennessee, to alter TVA's financial procedure ended last week when senate conferees agreed to recommend abandonment of it, to permit early enactment of the appropriations bill.

Senator McKellar told interviewers, however, that he would take other action soon in his effort to confine TVA expenditures to appropriations voted by congress. At present the authority may use receipts from the sale of power in its operations.

The independent offices bill carries $136,100,000 to finance TVA's dam construction program the next fiscal year. In addition, the authority retains the right to use power receipts estimated at $36,000,000 for the next year, as well as funds remaining from the current fiscal year's appropriations on June 30.

New Director Of Grady Here To Take Over

Walker To Become Superintendent After Learning Setup.

Fred Walker, newly elected assistant superintendent of Grady hospital who will become superintendent just as soon as he becomes familiar with the organization, yesterday reported for duty at the 600-bed institution.

He comes to Atlanta with 17 years of experience in hospital administration as a background. He served as superintendent of the Charlotte Memorial hospital three years before coming to Atlanta, and previous to that was for 13 years general superintendent of the Duval county hospital, Jacksonville, Fla. He began his hospital work during the first World War when he was assigned to the administrative staff of the Walter Reed hospital, Washington, D. C.

Councilman Frank Wilson, who was elected superintendent at the same time Walker was made assistant, pointed out that Walker will take complete charge and that the councilman will retire just as soon as Walker becomes familiar with the hospital. Wilson emphasized that he is just something in the capacity of an adviser to Walker and that Walker will have complete administrative charge of the institution.

Walker made it plain that he intends to proceed slowly, explaining that his first job is to become familiar with the setup and the operation of Grady. He said he is impressed with the "fine reputation for professional work, which Grady enjoys."

Dr. Russell H. Oppenheimer, medical director of Grady, and Wilson yesterday were conferring with Walker about Walker's new charge. Walker is the father of three children—two sons and a daughter.

As soon as Walker becomes oriented, he will be made superintendent and Wilson will retire, it was announced.

60-Cent Cables To Soldiers Begin

WASHINGTON, June 22.—(AP)—

The Army's new system of fixed-text "canned" cable and radio messages to soldiers overseas went into effect with messages accepted for troops in six American territories and foreign countries.

For 60 cents, plus federal tax, such messages as "Letter received many thanks" and "Please write" were accepted by commercial communications agencies for transmission to Great Britain, Northern Ireland, Newfoundland, Panama, Hawaii and the Dutch West Indies.

Senders must have the name, rank, Army serial number and Army post office number of the soldier. Telegraph and radio offices have been supplied with lists of Army post office numbers to which messages may be sent, along with a list of 102 stock messages. Of these, as many as three may be combined.

Tobruk Defenders Dazed by Speed Of Axis Assault

Bad Weather Still Conceals Jap Operations

Consolidation of Kiska, Attu Landings Believed Continuing.

WASHINGTON, June 22.—(AP)—Japan was believed today to be continuing her thus far costly operations among the western Aleutian islands, but the Navy maintained a firm silence as to what might actually be going on. Indications were that the recurrent bad weather in that section of the north Pacific had once more provided a cover for the enemy's surface craft which already have landed apparently small forces on Attu and Kiska islands.

The last word on the situation was the Navy's communique of Sunday reporting that Army aircraft had scored bomb hits on a cruiser and sunk a transport, raising to seven the number of ships which the Navy officially has reported damaged.

For this cost in ships, the Japs to date are known to have gained only the landings on Attu and Kiska, occupations which authorities here have consistently described as having no strategic importance in themselves. Japan's ultimate objectives remained as obscure as the real military situation in the Aleutians.

AXIS THREAT TO EGYPT—Allied forces rallied at the Egyptian border yesterday to meet victory-inspired German columns (1—black arrows), driving ahead after capture of Tobruk. A preliminary clash was reported northwest of Fort Capuzzo, as General Erwin Rommel hastened to pursue his advantage. Some British commentators thought Allied defenses near the seacoast would be of little use so long as the Axis had tanks enough to try a flanking drive (2—broken arrow) through Giarrabus and Siwa oases. Axis planes following up the land gains, bombed the Egyptian coast between Sidi Barrani and Fuka (3). (Story on Page 1.)

Wave of Protest, Political Crisis Precipitated by Fall of Tobruk

LONDON, June 22.—(AP)—The disastrous collapse of Tobruk and the menace of German troops at the Egyptian border provoked a wave of protest in Britain tonight which precipitated a political crisis.

The sun-bronzed and sweating young defenders fought stubbornly, engaging the Axis infantry hand-to-hand even after the enemy tanks had passed through the five-mile eastern gap.

The main German armor was concentrated on the east with ceaseless Stuka raids upon the British by day and high level bomber raids by night.

The sun-bronzed and sweating young defenders fought stubbornly, engaging the Axis infantry hand-to-hand even after the enemy tanks had passed through the five-mile eastern gap.

British, Indians and South Africans stuck to their posts, side-by-side in their steel and underground defenses until the tanks had smashed headlong over them and through the minefields. Then the stout-hearted defenders emerged from their wrecked redoubts to fight with what they could against the oncoming machine-gunning, rifle-firing and grenade-tossing foe.

When the Axis troops came up from the south to pierce the perimeter from El Adem road it was obvious that the end was near.

Throughout the bloody desert fighting the RAF made sortie after sortie, bombing and strafing the enemy's concentrations and supply lines.

RAF Fire Dispersed. But the Germans and Italians were able to concentrate nearly all their air power on one spot—Tobruk—while the RAF had numerous other fronts to handle at the same time.

As rumbling explosions from the Tobruk garrison's earth-shaking shrapnel, scattered parties of German paratroopers tumbled out of Junkers 52 troop carriers with the intention of mopping up the remaining opposition and of disorganizing and frustrating the Allied attempt to blow up everything within the fortress.

They didn't succeed and numbers of the Nazis were shot dead on landing by the men of the doomed stronghold.

An awesome pall of black smoke reaching hundreds of feet all but blacked out Tobruk and the perimeter area and gave fiery testimony to the work of destruction wrought by the British.

Much Material Burned. The hard-pressed defenders applied the torch to huge piles of stores of supplies, high piles of ammunition and oil drums, and aerial reconnaissance later showed that they succeeded in destroying practically everything before the surrender.

Some of the defenders continued to hold out last night in the numerous canyons around Tobruk. Because of the difficulty of attacking them on the ground, the Germans were using parachute troops in cleaning up operations.

Hundreds of Axis troops were dropped from the moonlit sky at several points where British and Indian units fought on.

All Egypt was stunned by the suddenness of the Libyan reverses. British Imperial forces were glum but determined that no attempt should be made to minimize the seriousness of the defeat.

The favored explanation by government spokesmen was that the British, although they had "some" American-made General Grant tanks and "some" new anti-tank guns, did not have enough to check the Germans. But political experts found such statements deficient in view of Britain's vast production efforts and privations caused by diversion of shipping to military convoys.

In view of the North African defeat, Churchill's assurance to Stalin and the Russians that they "can count on us to assist you by every means in our power" sounded hollow to many Britons.

There was no weakening in the faith of the Allies' ability to "bring our enemies to their knees," as Churchill promised Stalin, but there was bitter disillusionment.

The Evening News, usually pro-Churchill, said tonight that "parliament will fail its duty if it does not probe this new inglorious failure (Tobruk) to its source."

"The people are no longer lied by promises of luscious fruits in years to come," the editorial said. "There are few people, very few, who delude themselves today that we are winning the war or that we have any apparent prospect of winning it in our present form." That parliament will probe every phase of the Libyan situation was evidenced in the demand of Henderson Stewart, Labor M.P. for "an immediate inquiry into the facts concerning statements of air superiority."

Stewart also will ask "how did the enemy succeed in bringing up troops, guns and transport and establishing air bases on the heels of our retreating troops?"

Captain Liddell Hart, a leading military writer, said this: "The chief doubt lies in the way our official calculations have so often and so obviously gone astray—which implies that there is something wrong either in the calculating apparatus in Whitehall or in the direction on the spot."

Rommel Given New Advance In Army Rank

Tobruk's Conqueror Wins Title of 'Field Marshal General.'

BERLIN (From German Broadcasts), June 22.—(AP)—Colonel-General Erwin Rommel, whose forces have just captured Tobruk, has been promoted to the rank of field marshal general, it was officially announced tonight.

Rommel, broadcasting to the German people, said tonight that the Axis Afrika Korps had suffered "the heaviest losses and privations" in storming the Libyan stronghold.

"Behind us are nearly four weeks of hard fighting," he declared in a formal statement on his victory. "The fighting, however, was not only hard but successful, unusually successful."

"Our troops have crowned their work so far by capturing the Tobruk fortress. Bardia was likewise occupied. German and Italian troops accomplished superhuman performances in this fighting."

"They captured with elan field fortifications, forts and minefields as can hardly be imagined. Despite the heaviest losses and privations, they held through day and night in the spirit which permeates all of us, the spirit of victory."

"The victory of our nation is certain. In this moment of the storming of Tobruk, the Panzer Army greets its Germany."

Prisoner Dives From Moving Train, Escapes

Fugitive Flees DeKalb Officer in Tennessee.

DeKalb County Policeman Johnny Jones returned to Decatur yesterday afternoon without the prisoner he had gone all the way to Toledo for the purpose of escorting back.

At the time of the return of Officer Jones, Etowah, Tenn., policemen and special railroad agents were searching Etowah for Benzy Hazen, the former prisoner of Officer Jones, who did a head dive through a window as the train bearing the prisoner and the officer southward, ran slowly through the Etowah freight yards.

Officer Jones reported the prisoner made his getaway Sunday, and that he remained in Etowah for several hours aiding police authorities in their search. Hazen is wanted in Decatur on a burglary indictment.

Hazen was indicted for burglarizing an automobile service station on Moreland avenue, near Ormewood avenue.

He also is wanted in Macon on a burglary charge, DeKalb officials said.

House Committee Rejects Plans For Taxing Checking Accounts

WASHINGTON, June 22.—(AP)—The House Ways and Means Committee rejected today two proposals to tax bank checks.

One contemplated a tax of one-hundredth of one per cent on money withdrawn from banks. The other was a suggestion for a two-cent tax on each check.

Nearing completion of new tax legislation, the committee approved a series of relief provisions for corporations which might suffer particular hardships under proposed new corporate tax rates.

While details were not disclosed, Representative Robertson, Democrat, Virginia, said three provisions dealt with cases where there was (1) marked diminution of production in the 1936-39 base period used in computing excess profits taxes by the average earnings method, (2) reduced because of temporary economic conditions, and (3) reduced income because

Glider Future Is Bright in U. S., EAL Pilot Asserts

By AL SHARP.

The glider which has become important in military tactics as far as Russia and Germany are concerned will come into its own in America before the war is over, Captain Shelley Charles, Eastern Airlines pilot, who is a soaring plane enthusiast, declared yesterday.

"The element of surprise in an attack by gliders is valuable," Charles pointed out, adding that transport gliders carry as many as 18 men.

"Gliderers may be towed within 100 miles of the objective," Charles said, "and dropped at 20,000 feet, so they will have plenty of leeway in reaching the objective."

Land Without Warning.

"This is usually done at dawn, so that there will be no warning and the gliders may find their objective without trouble. The planes may come in without warning, because they have no motors to warn the enemy."

Charles, holder of the American Open soaring championship, which he won in 1940, said that the transport gliders are as large as airliners and that six can be towed at once behind a transport plane.

He pointed out that a glider carrying 18 men well equipped with small arms, including machineguns, could land at the edge of an airport or any other objective and have the situation in hand quickly if the proper defense had not been set up.

Freight Aid Seen.

"When the war is over Charles expects gliders to play an important part in carrying freight. The freight trains of the air would be able to pick up and drop laden gliders without making stops, he pointed out."

Charles has been enthusiastic about soaring ever since he started with the old-type glider in the 20s. He has been most active in the sport since 1939, when he obtained a German-made soaring plane—"one of their best."

He has stayed in the air over Atlanta for seven hours and 20 minutes and could have stayed longer if he had taken his lunch along. His longest flight was 141 miles and he has soared to 20,000 feet.

Soaring Plane Tour.

The Army recently asked Charles to make a tour of the eastern states in a plane-towed soaring plane—one that will go up and down as contrasted to the glider which is made for gliding down and not up.

He is planning to make the trip in a plane furnished by the Army. "This one I have was made in Germany, you see, and it would be hard to replace right now," he explained. "It's too valuable to take on such a tour. You never know exactly what a pilot in the towing plane is going to do with you when you run into a little storm or something."

"There's no way to explain the thrill one gets in soaring," Charles said. "There's no comparison between a power plane and a soaring plane," he added. "It's as different as sailing a boat and running around at 60 miles an hour in a motorboat."

Nearest to Human Flying.

"You're up there by yourself on your own. You become part of the plane working the elements. It's the nearest a human being comes to actually flying himself."

"You hunt for thermals—air currents—and you ride them around. If they run out, you look for some buzzards and join them. Sounds funny, all right, but soaring will make you friendly with buzzards. They soar in the same currents and usually if you can find some you'll find an air current to ride."

"Lots of folks are scared by the fact you're up in the air without a motor. But you'd be surprised what you can do with a soaring plane. When I won the national championship in 1940—incidentally, they haven't held the championship since then—there was a contest each day on spot landings."

Accuracy in Landing.

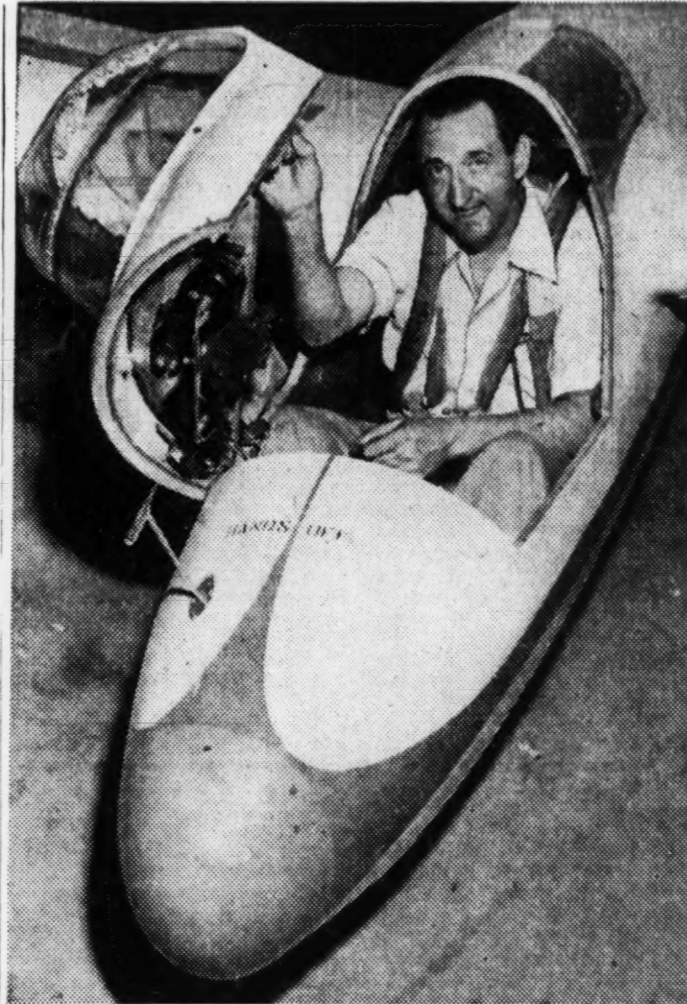

"During the 10 days of the meet I won once by placing the nose of my plane 13 inches from the flag. The other nine days I was within three feet of the flag every time, but I didn't win. That will give you an idea of the accuracy with which you can land."

Charles has made two jumps in parachutes to save his skin while testing power planes, but he's never had any trouble with soaring planes.

"They won't spin, you know, and when you get used to them, they're just as easy to handle as anything," Charles added.

He did use an automobile with a winch attachment to get aloft, but lately he's been using a towing plane, especially since he's getting some mighty good work out of the tires on the extowing car.

The Army means business with its organization of glider squadrons. Already, four schools for training the pilots have been opened, and applicants who are unable to pass rigid aviation cadet physicals cal exams may be able to enlist for glider training.

Men between 18 and 35 years of age will be accepted for glider training, Army recruiting pamphlets state. This gives those above the aviation cadet age limit of 26 a chance.

Applicants may obtain the necessary papers and other information at Army recruiting stations or aviation cadet examining boards.

New Rent Control Areas Designated

WASHINGTON, June 22.—(AP) Federal rent control will be imposed on 60 additional communities, embracing about 28 million persons, on July 1, the Office of Price Administration indicated today.

The cities were designated as defense rental areas on April 28 and were given 60 days to reduce rents to specified levels through local action. Disclosure of the intended federal action implied that OPA was satisfied local action would not suffice to reduce rentals.

Among the larger cities where federal control would be imposed are Chicago, Philadelphia, San Francisco, Pittsburgh, San Antonio, Indianapolis, Buffalo, Dayton, Ohio, Joliet, Ill., the Newark-Jersey City area, New Haven, Conn., and the Portland, Ore.-Vancouver, Wash., area.

NEWSPAPER SUSPENDED.

BUENOS AIRES, June 22.—(AP) Police today ordered the Leftist newspaper La Hora to suspend publication for 30 days. Officials of the paper said the police did not specify why the suspension was ordered, but they expressed the belief it might have been because of an article eulogizing Russia on the first anniversary of the German invasion.

Soaring Plane Found Answer To Tire Scarcity

Captain Shelley Charles, of Eastern Airlines, always did like to fool with soaring planes, but now that tires are scarce he's more convinced than ever.

For, you see, Captain Charles bought a second-hand automobile for towing the plane in the air. Came the tire shortage and the ones on his automobile which he used going and coming to the airport wore thin.

So Charles took the winch off the towing machine, which had fine tires, and worried no more about the tire situation.

P. S.—He now uses another plane—one with power—to get the soaring plane into the air.

Permanent Gas Rationing To Start July 22

as possible before the registration period.

Private cars for driving to and from work is imperative for two reasons," Henderson said. "First, private cars are needed to supplement public transportation, and, second, in view of the petroleum shortage in the east, we must make every gallon of gasoline count. Car clubs, in which four or more persons arrange to ride to and from work together, have therefore been made a requirement for any supplemental ration to be granted under the plan."

The signatures of club members must appear on any application to a local rationing board for supplemental rations. An applicant who has not formed a car club will be required to prove that it was impossible for him to do so.

It was emphasized that the mere formation of a car club would not automatically qualify a motorist for a supplemental ration. The motorist still would have to show that his mileage requirements justified more gasoline than would be provided by the basic A book.

Joel Dean, fuel rationing director for OPA, said recently that the basic ration unit would be about four gallons. Each "A" ration book will contain 48 such coupons, and will be intended to last for one year.

Six Unhurt as Plane Makes Forced Landing

BATHURST, New Brunswick, June 22.—(AP)—A large United States airplane made a forced landing tonight in a field at Big River, five miles from here. The crew of six escaped injury, but one wheel of the plane was reported damaged.

Weather conditions and lack of fuel were said to have prevented a landing at an airfield. No information was given as to the plane's point of departure or destination.

Husband Hurls Wife to Death, Fails in Suicide

Domestic Difficulties Are Blamed by Estranged Mate.

Domestic difficulties caused by another man, yesterday were blamed by Private Harvey Jordan Denny, 35, for the death yesterday of his wife and his own attempted suicide.

Early Monday morning Denny said he threw his 35-year-old wife from a third-floor porch of her apartment at 72 Baker street, N. W., when he tried futilely to effect a reconciliation with her and then attempted vainly to end his own life.

Mrs. Denny's body was at Awtry & Lowndes awaiting completion of funeral arrangements, and Denny was considered in a serious condition at Grady hospital, where he was under police guard.

Married Last August.

Denny said he tried to "put out my light, and failed, and now I guess I'll have to serve some time."

Denny said he does not remember the name of the other man, but he is a sergeant stationed at Fort Jackson, S. C.

The Dennys were married last August, but they have been estranged for some little time. Denny blamed the sergeant for breaking up his home, and said he had done everything possible to reconcile their differences, but that too, like his attempt to take his own life, had failed. He said he killed his wife and tried to kill himself because he loved his wife too much to let another man take her away from him.

Leg. Arm Broken.

Denny's left arm and right leg were broken in his three-story dive from the apartment soon after he had thrown Mrs. Denny from the same balcony. Doctors said it would be about two weeks before they could operate on him and that they might not be able to save him if complications set in. Denny was under police guard at the hospital.

Mrs. Alice Thompson, 19, Mrs. Denny's daughter, told investigators that Denny came to her mother's apartment about 3 o'clock Monday morning and told her mother and the daughter: "I'm going to kill myself and let you see me do it."

The daughter then told officers she went for help. She said when she returned, Denny was standing on the porch. As the body fell Denny said "I told you I loved you," Mrs. Thompson was quoted as saying. Denny then leaped from the balcony himself.

Military authorities from Conley, where Denny was stationed, were aiding local police officers in the investigation.

Bill Merging All Telegraph Firms Passes

House Must Act on Measure Before It Becomes Effective.

WASHINGTON, June 22.—(AP) The senate approved today legislation which would permit merger of the Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies.

Senator McFarland, Democrat, Arizona, said the measure authorizing the voluntary consolidation and merger of all domestic telegraph operations was "soundly in the public interest."

The senate asserted that the Postal Telegraph Company was "losing in the hole" at the rate of $300,000 monthly while Western Union suffered "great losses in recent years." He said that merger should assure an efficient telegraph-communication system badly needed for the war effort.

McFarland, author of the bill which now goes to the house, asserted that the merger would release large amounts of critical materials to the War Department.

For example, he said, Western Union immediately could release 6,200 teletype printers, and Postal, 1,200.

"Obviously," he added, "the Postal cannot survive without government subsidy. The merger will provide a much more efficient communications system."

Senator Ellender, Democrat, Louisiana, asked how a merger could make any great savings possible. McFarland replied that savings could be expected because of "a great turnover of business under war conditions."

Couple 200 Miles From Home Wires Fireman To Put Out Blaze

MASSILLON, Ohio, June 22.—(AP)—A telegram sent from Fort Wayne, Ind., more than 200 miles from Massillon, notified local firemen of a fire in a house in Walnut Hills, government housing project. The telegram was sent by P. W. Hornighough, who lives in the house, and told firemen that when he and Mrs. Hornighough left their home they forgot to detach an electric iron. They did not think about it until they reached Fort Wayne. Firemen rushed to the house, entering with a pass key. Sure enough, they found the electric iron attached and smoke coming from the ironing board.

Price Ceiling For 'Services' To Be Issued

WASHINGTON, June 22.—(AP) The Office of Price Administration will issue shortly a complete new price ceiling regulation, effective July 1, for "retail services," including dry cleaning, shoe repair, laundry, tailoring, auto repair and garage service.

The universal price order, as originally announced in April, covered both goods and services and was made effective for services on July 1 but price officials have arrived at the conclusion, it was learned today, that separate treatment for the service industries was desirable.

OPA officials declined to disclose details of the pending order but said that, in general, prices would be based on the March, 1942, levels prescribed by the universal price order. The new regulation is expected this week.

Professional services, such as those of doctors, dentists and lawyers, are exempted from price control by the general price regulation. So also are personal services not connected with commodities, such as barber and beauty shops.

By certain "self-executing" provisions of the new order, officials said, formulas will be provided for putting maximum prices on services of a seasonal nature. Dry cleaners, for instance, in many cases could not use the level of last March, when their business was mainly in handling woolen apparel, in computing price maximums for washable summer clothing.

The "self-executing" provisions, whatever they may turn out to be, will take care of such situations. It was indicated that the scheme involved some form of cost-plus-normal markup.

An empty house is more expensive than a want ad in The Constitution that will rent it.

Attempting a nonstop flight from Calcutta to Kunming, an airline distance of 950 miles over some of the worst terrain in the world, the general and his staff soon ran into a storm which forced them to seek a landing field.

They found one inside Chinese territory, but it was so obscured by rain they could not be certain whether it was in Chinese or Japanese hands, although they flew as low as 10 feet trying to read the markings on plane wings.

So they flew back to India and when they landed there they had only 40 gallons of gasoline in the tanks, enough for 10 minutes' flight.

Skull Fracture Is Fatal To Hanson Youth

2-Year-Old Boy Found on Tracks in College Park.

Little Billy Joe Hanson, two, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Hanson, 611 Broad street, East Point, died early yesterday morning at a private sanitarium as the result of a fractured skull.

With his parents, the child was visiting friends on North Main street in College Park Sunday morning. A few moments after their arrival, the child disappeared, and a search revealed him lying on the railroad tracks in front of the home; his arm and skull fractured.

College Park officials expressed the opinion that a passing train had struck the child, although no witnesses could be found.

Survivors are his parents; one brother, Harry Hanson; maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Bell, and paternal grandfather, W. W. Hanson.

Funeral services will be held at 6 o'clock this afternoon at the First Baptist church in East Point, with the Rev. W. A. Duncan officiating. Burial will be in Hill Crest cemetery.

Prompt action is necessary in replying to the attractive offers in the Want Ad pages of The Constitution.

Work for Hitler 'Or Else,' Laval Tells Frenchmen

VICHY, June 22.—(AP)—Flatly declaring "I desire Germany's victory because of the Red peril," Pierre Laval exhorted French industrial workers tonight to go to work in Germany and held out the hope that in exchange Hitler might agree to make beneficial arrangements for French prisoners of war.

The chief of government and arch-collaborator, in a radio address to the nation on the second anniversary of the signing of the French-German armistice, appealed to Frenchmen to enter the employ of the Nazis because even the release of prisoners as well as "the French position in the new Europe" depended on their attitude.

Workers For Farmers.

The immediate result, he said, would be a concession from Hitler providing for "liberation of an important number of farmer prisoners who will be able to return to France as soon as you arrive in Germany."

In other words, French industry will be stripped of workers and the country reduced to a nation of farmers. Crowds gathered before loud-speakers mounted in the streets to listen to Laval. Afterward an audience gathered at a theater mass meeting here to hear Professor Grimm, a Nazi, expound on the subject "towards Franco-German reconciliation."

Laval hinted that a deal for exchange of prisoners in general for workers had already been worked out when General Henri Honore Giraud spoiled it by his "sensational escape" from Nazi custody last April.

The plan envisaged, he explained, was not for freeing the prisoners but for the "transformation of their lot into that of free workmen."

In these words he dashed the hopes nursed for more than two years in the homes of a million and a half war prisoners—hopes that all would be freed and permitted to return to France.

Labor 'Indispensable.' "The moment of liberation has been allowed to slip by," he added. "It was possible, but since Germany is making war against the Soviets, the labor power of a great number of our prisoners has become indispensable to her."

"There are other measures which could be envisaged: Furloughs, transformation of their lot into free workmen with salaries and occasionally the possibility of sending over their families. I have reasons to believe that Chancellor Hitler was disposed to take certain generous measures."

Referring to the escape of General Giraud from German custody last April, Laval said: "It was then that a painful incident arose. A sensational escape and in consequence a notice served on the French government that henceforth all facilities granted prisoners would be suspended and that all liberations, even in individual cases, would be stopped."

'New Hope' Held Out. After painting this black picture, he held out the brighter prospect that "in this situation a new hope arises for our prisoners" and addressed himself to workers who, he said, "if they answer my appeal, if they agree to go to work in Germany I know they will find a welcome there."

Again and again he reiterated his appeal with words such as "workmen of France must respond to my appeal. I have grave reasons to ask of it of them and they must understand that more than our daily life is involved. . . . understand that one day we will have to negotiate a new peace."

At this point he added the only definite promise in his speech, saying: "Chancellor Hitler has just decided on liberation of an important number of farmer prisoners who will be able to return to France as soon as you arrive in Germany."

'Nothing to Fear.' Laval assured workmen that as a result of a German victory "you will have nothing to fear but everything to hope from the regime which will be installed among us."

"A younger, a more human and stronger republic is to be born," he went on. "Socialism will be installed everywhere in Europe and the form it will adopt in France will be designed by our national character."

"We must either take part in the new Europe or be resigned to being cheated. If I tell you this policy is the one to save France and guarantee a good future you must believe me."

"It is for the liberty of war prisoners that you must go to work in Germany. It is to give France her position in the new Europe." Referring to the Nazi need for labor, Laval declared, "France cannot be passive now and just look on at the sacrifices of Germany."

'Factories Slowing Down.' "At the moment France lacks raw materials," he said. "Our factories are slowing down. Unemployment is becoming worse. Numerous workers are without work very urgently."

Acknowledging the difficulty many Frenchmen would have in accepting a policy of understanding with Germany, the government chief said:

"I always loved my country too much to bother about popularity. But I must do my duty as chief of government when I tell you this policy is the only one which could assure preservation of France and guarantee her development in the future peace."

"I can do nothing for you without you. No one could save a nation which is inert or stubborn. Only support of the country can lead to a reasonable and fruitful policy."

He then mentioned "British aggression in Madagascar and American intervention in the Antilles" as "new difficulties" facing his regime.

'Significant' Presence. Laval repeated the statement made in his maiden speech as chief of government that "my presence in the government has significance which escapes nobody—that of collaboration with the Axis powers."

"Events," he confessed, "have not at all favored me." Beginning his 12-minute address with a discussion of the food shortage, Laval said France was living through difficult moments and that "we will have still more privations."

"But there is a redoubtable and, for me, a more anguishing moment," he went on. "It is the one in which France's fate will be decided for a long period."

"From this war new Europe will rise inevitably. I hope for the victory of Germany because without it Bolshevism will install itself everywhere tomorrow."

Roosevelt Asks Advertisers To Keep Up Space

Liberty Can Be Strengthened by Messages, F.D.R. Asserts.

NEW YORK, June 22.—(AP)—President Roosevelt said today that "the desire for liberty and freedom can be strengthened by reiteration of their benefits" through advertising.

In a message to the 38th annual convention of the Advertising Federation of America, the President said:

"It is obvious that there are many changes going on in your field. For the duration there will be a diminution in product advertising, but this does not mean an end of advertising."

"There are many messages which should be given the public through the use of advertising space. The desire for liberty and freedom can be strengthened by reiteration of their benefits."

"If the members of your organization will, wherever possible, assist in the war program and continue the splendid spirit of co-operation which they have shown during the past year, advertising will have a worthwhile and patriotic place in the nation's total war effort."

Sub Attack Fails To Dent Spirit Of Ship Survivor--Going Back

Talk about that good old American spirit, just listen—After a tanker was blasted by a Nazi sub off the Atlantic coast, several survivors were brought into port. They were a sight to see, tattered, bearded and sun-roasted.

A bystander watched them come up the dock, impressed by the fact that these men who had been adrift in the open sea for days could laugh and joke. He knew that two had died of exposure and exhaustion.

"Where you going?" he asked one.

"To a hotel for a shower," was the brief reply.

"Then where?"

"To Norfolk; I'm catching a ship there in the morning."

"You don't mean to tell me you're going out on a ship again right away after all you've been through?"

"Hell, mister," was the grinning answer, "you wouldn't refuse to ride an ambulance to the hospital after an automobile wreck, would you?"

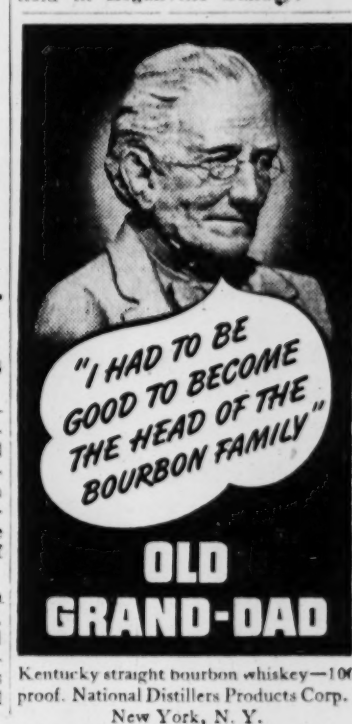

New York, declared in the convention keynote address that the American people were "having a taste of totalitarianism" by relinquishing many things and "are cheerfully determined to continue this self-denial for the duration" of the war.

"But let any man or group of men after the war suggest that this regimentation be permanent, and he or they will find themselves promptly separated from the public pay roll," Barton added.

"In the good days of peace we thought democracy was the best form of government; now, having lost it temporarily, we know it is best, and we want it promptly restored."

Henry Cawthon Dudley Is Denied Plea For Clemency

Walter Forster Granted Parole by Governor.

Application for clemency for Henry Cawthon, now serving a sentence in connection with the East Point floggings, has been denied by the Prison and Parole Commission, records yesterday revealed. However, Walter Forster, convicted in 1940 on an assault and battery charge in connection with the floggings, has been granted a parole by the Governor, the Prison Commission records show.

Both Forster and Cawthon received the maximum sentences for an assault and battery conviction, a year in prison, six months in jail and a fine of $1,000. Cawthon, who appealed his conviction, was ordered to begin serving his sentence August 24, 1941, after being refused a new trial, while Forster had served the one-year prison sentence.

Clemency hearings for Raymond J. Bryan and George Cameron, also convicted in connection with the floggings, were held last week by the parole commission, which now has their applications under consideration.

This war is plumb ruining newspaper staffs—it is depleting the forces of many other enterprises.

The youngsters are going into the service. Some as officers, some in the ranks. Their special training has landed many of them in "public relations," which means providing the public with all the news permissible. They're doing a fine job.

So here is where the girl reporter steps in. It is her big year and she is making the most of it. She is doing a good job, too, and will do it better as she gains experience.

Look at the "by lines" in the papers. Feminine names over many stories. I'll bet the writers are tickled pink. It was several years of reporting for me before I got a "by line." They were not customary then. I like them, if the story is handled in a way to justify the author's name at the top. I believe in encouraging people. Because I learned my trade under a hard-boiled city editor who wouldn't have had a word of praise for a reporter if he'd written the Gettysburg address.

City editors didn't use to like girl reporters. I didn't. We had an idea a girl was fit only to do society and women's clubs and parent-teacher meetings and things scorned by the he-reporter with a pipe in his mouth. But years ago I discovered that a girl—or some girls—made very good reporters, willing to tackle anything from a circus to a murder story.

Several I knew were terrific flops. But I've known a hundred or so male flops, too, men who just didn't have the flair for newspaper work. So they quit or were fired and went on into business and got rich. At least, some of them did.

Celebrities

"I know I'd love newspaper work. You meet so many interesting people."

That's a remark to which veterans have become inured. It's like: "Is it hot enough for you?" Almost any answer will do.

But I do find that the young girls, some of them fresh from John Dewey's school of journalism at the University of Georgia, some just out of high school, are meeting interesting people. More than they'd meet in years if they were typists or saleswomen. And more this year than in years before.

It's the war. Atlanta is the big center of the southeast for federal affairs. Big shots are stationed here. Bigger shots come down from Washington for brief visits—and are interviewed.

The girls are doing quite a job on interviews, too. The requisites for an interviewer are a good memory, a thorough understanding of what the interviewee is talking about and a willingness to ask questions. Most of the big fellows—if they really are big fellows—want to get their story before the public. They are helpful. I think they are even more anxious to see that the girl reporter gets a good story than if she were a man. They never get too old to be gallant toward a skirt.

The girls are taking it like men—and enjoying it. They are riding jeeps and sharing soldiers' grub and sticking their noses into strange places and situations and I've never heard of one of them swooning. They day in and day out when a girl needs chaperonage or the "protection" of a strong male arm. What is there to be protected against?

Reporter Sleuths

One of the young journalists—a term a good newspaperman hates because it connotes long hair (masculine hair), a flowing black Windsor tie and a notebook—asked me on her second day in the shop if I ever went out and ran down a murderer who had baffled the police department and did I get a scoop on it.

I told her I had solved more crime mysteries than Sherlock Holmes, Ellery Queen and Dick Tracy rolled into one, and that the police departments of seven cities were jealous of me. Which was a double-distilled lie. I think it was Engel, the Chattanooga baseball manager and showman—or show-off—who declared a reporter couldn't track a crippled elephant through six feet of snow. As far as my experience goes he was right.

KEEP IT FLOWING—Scenes like this soon will be duplicated in Georgia and other states as new pipelines are laid to ease the oil shortage on the eastern seaboard. Forty-foot sections of pipe are welded above ground, then moved into the ditch. They usually are covered with about two feet of earth. Before the pipe is laid the soil is analyzed to determine its effect on the pipe. If it is "sweet" the pipe is laid bare. If it is corrosive or "acid" soil the pipe is coated with tar and wrapped in rags, felt, or paper before being covered with earth.

There have been cases in which a bright reporter has turned up clues and evidence. I know of several such stunts by Atlanta reporters. But they are few and far between. The only really good reporter-detective I know is Leo Nahlik, who worked a while on the old Georgian. But he didn't do any detecting until he joined the force and had ceased to be a reporter.

No, Carrie Bell, honey, you won't have much chance to go out and get your man—except in matrimony.

Because if you go out sleuthing around and peeking through keyholes and climbing through windows and ordering suspected criminals to back up against the wall and confess you're going to have your pretty ears slapped back and maybe you'll land in jail for trespass or illegal entry and the paper will have a devil of a time getting you out.

The reason detectives get their man—sometimes—is because they have the equipment. They have the law behind them. They have the stool pigeons. They have their contacts with what we like to call the underworld. They can make people talk by various methods you can't use. Perhaps, Carrie Bell, honey, you've been seeing too many newspaper movies.

Dalton Man Accused in Prison Death

Fellow Convict Stabbed in Tennessee State Institution.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 22.—(AP)—Ord Winingham, 30-year-old prisoner from Crossville, Tenn., was stabbed to death at the main state prison today by a fellow convict identified by Record Clerk James Glidewell as Howard Overby, 26, of Dalton, Ga.

Glidewell quoted prisoners as saying Overby stabbed Winingham twice about the neck with a screw driver. Winingham died almost instantly. Glidewell said Overby told prison officials that Winingham came to his cell and attacked him with a putty knife and that he struck back in self-defense.

The clerk said prison records show that Overby escaped from a Georgia prison, where he was serving a life sentence. Winingham was under sentence of 20 years for first-degree murder.

Good Morning

By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

TWO POEMS.

A cherished friend, long an invalid, wrote me a note the other day, saying: "The one quarrel I have with you is that you don't give us as many poems as you used to." And on the very day that I received this letter came the May 28 issue of the Baptist Times, London, one of the weekly magazines that I always carefully read, and in that issue the editor publishes, on the front page, the sixty-third poem which I have selected from the great English poets. This one, written by Thomas Tiplady, will, I believe, be pleasing to my correspondent, and to many another reader. The poem, a prayer for those in hospitals, follows:

Where row on row there lie the sick and ailing,
And pain is never absent from the ward,
Reveal Thyself, O Comforter un-failing,
And do what seemeth good to Thee, O Lord;
O speak the word that will restore the dying,
And close again the opening door of death;
Relieve the pain of those in anguish lying,
And breathe upon them Thy life-giving breath.

In sympathy and long suspense we suffer,
And yet Thy will, O Lord, not ours be done;
We do not understand the prayers we offer,
Nor know Thy plan for each beloved one;
We only know that pitiful and tender
Beyond man's highest, noblest thought Thou art;
And when, to Thee, our loved ones we surrender,
They find a place of refuge near Thy heart.

Another poem which I have long wanted to use in my column may well go along today with the above great prayer for those in hospitals. This second poem is entitled "Somewhere," and is written by Sallie R. Burgess. The poem:

Somewhere out on the ocean wide,
Somewhere on land or sea,
God bless our boys, God bless our men,
Who fight for liberty!
Dear Father, keep them in Thy care
Somewhere! Somewhere!

We may not know, we cannot tell
What dangers may be there.
We only know they cannot go
Beyond Thy love and care.
Oh Father! keep them in Thy care.
Somewhere! Somewhere!

Reflecting upon the lifting power of these poems, my own heart turns in renewed thanksgiving to these words from Psalms 63:3:

"Because Thy lovingkindness is better than life, my lips shall praise Thee." Selah.

Paul Etheridge Is Candidate For Re-election

Has Served 4 Years as Representative From Fulton.

Paul S. Etheridge Jr. yesterday announced his candidacy for re-election to the Georgia legislature, in which he has served four years as representative from Fulton county.

In his announcement, Etheridge promised to support measures designed to limit the pardoning power of the Governor and abolish the so-called "pardon racket."

"I announce myself as a candidate for re-election to the state legislature after considerable thought," he said. "I do so realizing that it will require a great deal of time and effort on my part, but I feel that in this time of emergency we need men of experience in our legislative halls."

"The next session of the Georgia legislature will have many weighty problems before it. The revenue of the state has been materially reduced by reason of the gasoline and tire rationing, and the necessary expenses of the state have in many cases been raised on account of the war."

"The legislature is going to be called upon to make up this deficit in the form of higher taxes. It is vital that Fulton county have experienced and able representatives to protect our county, otherwise the bulk of the burden will be placed on us."

"I am 36 years old, was born and have lived all my life in Atlanta and Fulton county. I attended Mercer University, where I received an A. B. degree and a degree in law. I have been practicing law in Atlanta for the last 14 years."

"I will appreciate the support of the citizens of this county, and I promise them that I will give them honest, intelligent and effective representation. I am not identified with any faction or clique, but am an independent. I will vote for each bill on its own merits, without regard to who or what interest is sponsoring it or fighting it."

Dean Terrell, Toccoa, Serves in Boy's State

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. TOCCOA, Ga., June 22.—Dean Terrell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Terrell, of Toccoa, represented Stephens county and Toccoa at the Georgia Boys' State held this week at Oglethorpe University, Atlanta, sponsored by the American Legion to teach civil government.

Boys selected for the meet were chosen for scholarship and personality. Terrell is an honor student at Toccoa High school and is active in the school band, in which he plays the clarinet. He is prominent in all school activities. He made himself known early in the state meet when he was elected by a landslide over two opponents for "representative in the house." He served well and offered bills of benefit to Boys' State. He was awarded a certificate for outstanding work and made a mark of 90 on final examination.

Prays a Lot, 'Jives' a Little To Ward Off Freezing Death

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., June 22.—(AP)—"I prayed a lot and 'jived' my shoulders a little."

That, said Genevieve Raisor, Negro kitchen attendant at Erlanger hospital, is how she managed not to freeze while trapped in a cold storage compartment at the hospital all of Saturday night.

She was found early Sunday morning by Chief Victor Jones when he opened the compartment to get supplies. Apparently not seriously harmed by her harrowing experience, the maid snuggled under hospital blankets today and called for hot coffee, then for water "with very little ice."

Toccoa Pilot Club Shifts Meeting Place

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. TOCCOA, Ga., June 22.—The Toccoa Pilot Club has changed its place of meeting to the Albemarle hotel for the summer months. The club will meet twice monthly, the second and fourth Fridays. Many members belonging to faculties of various schools are absent from meetings during the vacation months until the schools open again.

The new officers and directors for the coming year elected recently are as follows: Mrs. Mary B. Smith, president; Frances Worley, first vice president; Mrs. Mary Bailey, second vice president; Agnes Latham, third vice president; Mrs. Ollie Mae Stowe, recording secretary; Bennie Mae Cagle, corresponding secretary; and Moody Lee Bowers, treasurer.

Directors include Elaine Collins, Ruth Whitley, Jayne Heller, Frances Stephens, Janet Risse and Lile Belle Carter.

Married Men Ordered Deferred

Lieutenant Colonel H. Cliff Hatcher, assistant state director of selective service, yesterday announced he was instructing all local draft boards to delay the induction of all men who were married before September 16, 1940, and also those whose induction was not imminent at the time of their marriage.

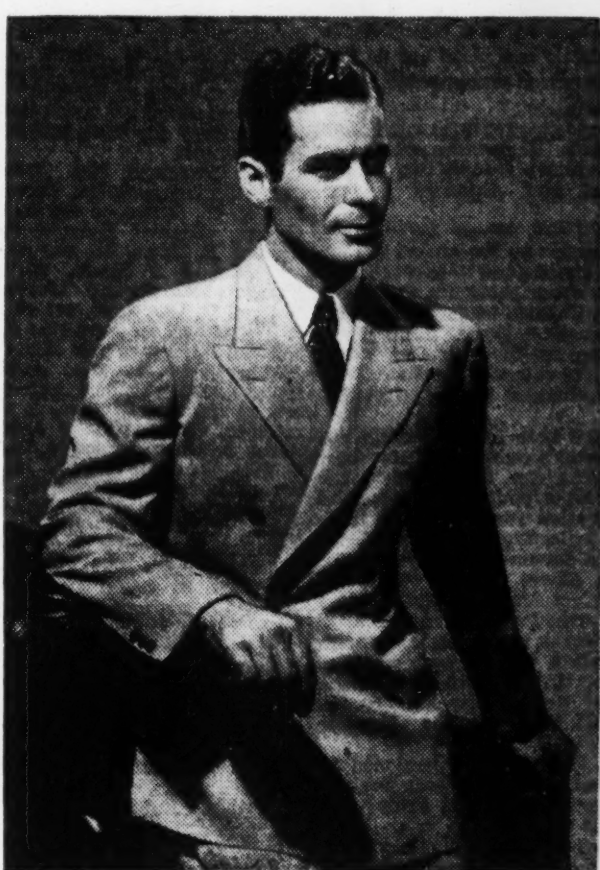

The delay will be extended over a period of 30 days, Colonel Hatcher said, pending outcome of an amendment to the dependency allowance bill.

'Earliest Maximum' Attack Occupies F. D. R., Churchill

WASHINGTON, June 22.—(AP)—President Roosevelt and Winston Churchill continued their strategy conferences here tonight with the formally announced objective of obtaining "the earliest maximum concentration of Allied war power upon the enemy."

In a joint statement about the parleys they have been carrying on for four days, the American chief executive and the British prime minister omitted details of decisions reached and of specific problems.

Speculation on these problems continued to center on the possibility of establishing a second front in Europe, on the grave Axis menace to Egypt, China and Sevastopol, and on the interlinked questions of supplies and shipping.

"Reviewing" Program.
Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill said any unofficial statements about the course of their discussions could be nothing more than surmise. They let down the bars of secrecy far enough to disclose that they were "reviewing or, when necessary, furthering the measures which have for some time past been on foot to develop and sustain the effort of the United Nations."

Their wording was broad enough to cover numerous operations, such as those of the lend-lease program, the combined chiefs of staff, and the Anglo-American production, farm, shipping, and munitions assignment agencies.

Night and day since a plane brought Churchill to the United States last Thursday the conferences have been going on, some times with naval, military and air experts of the two nations sitting in.

"Complete Harmony."
"Complete understanding and harmony exists between all concerned in facing the vast and grave tasks which lie ahead," the joint statement said. "A number of outstanding points of detail which it would have been difficult to settle by correspondence have been adjusted by the technical officers after consultation with the President and the Prime Minister."

Presidential Secretary Stephen Early, who described the conferences as progressing in "a very satisfactory way," said tonight's statement was of an "intermediate" nature and that "in all probability there will be a final statement."

Hopkins Sees 3d, 4th Fronts If Necessary

'Nothing Can Stop Onward March' of Allies He Says.

NEW YORK, June 22.—(AP)—Harry Hopkins, speaking at a Russian war relief rally, said tonight President Roosevelt told him to tell the meeting the United States would give Russia aid on the battlefield and that the Russian front would not fail.

Asserting that he had spoken to Mr. Roosevelt a few hours before coming to New York while the President and Prime Minister Winston Churchill were talking "about strategic steps to be taken," Hopkins said the President gave him this message to deliver:

"Tell them that we mean to give Russian aid on the field of battle and that our armed forces will attack at the right time and at the right place and that the Russian front will not fail."

"Minds Made Up."
Hopkins said a second front, and if necessary, a third and fourth front, would be established to pen up Hitler's armies while the Allied air forces destroyed his cities, one by one.

"The American people have made up their minds," the lend-lease administrator and close adviser of the President said. "Nothing can stop the onward march to overwhelming military victory."

Italy, Hopkins predicted, "led by that fat, almost retired exhibitionist, Mussolini, will collapse like an inflated mushroom under the first stress of a violent attack."

"Once Mussolini wanted Ethiopia and got it—well, when the war is over if the Italian people do not hang him by his cowardly neck I can only hope that he will be turned over to the tender mercies of the Ethiopian King."

"Disaster Awaits Tojo."
As for Hitler's other major ally, Japan, Hopkins said the battles of the Coral sea and Midway were "preludes of the inevitable disaster that awaits Tojo (the Japanese premier) and his cruel military dictatorship."

"We mean to, and will," he declared, "destroy the last vestiges of that military dictatorship which has dominated Japan for so many years and oppressed the great masses of their people."

"Tojo had better get ready. He'd better get ready to choose the weapon with which he and hundreds of his officers will commit hara-kiri."

"Every Japanese soldier will be swept out of China and Manchuria and Korea, and China will live again—a free country guiding its own destiny."

Hopkins cautioned, however, that there would be defeats and dark days before victory. With reference to China, he said "never before has brave country in such danger. Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek can be sure of our aid."

Russia in Danger.
Russian and the Russian Army, he said, "are in danger—just as they have been in danger for the last 365 days."

Calling that front the "most important strategic" one in the world, Hopkins said more aid must and would be given the Red Army.

Asserting that his country always would be "proud of the mission that has fallen to it—to create the first dam to stem the tide of German aggression," Russian Ambassador to the United States M. M. Litvinov told the gathering Hitler was "stalking his ally" in his new offensive on the Soviet front.

"This," declared Litvinov in a prepared speech, "is his final throw of the dice."

Declaring that Germany's endurance was limited strictly "both as to time and resources," Litvinov said:

"It would, however, be wrong to suppose that superiority of resources is bound mechanically and in all circumstances to insure victory."

"Much depends on the rational and timely use of resources. Their dispersal in space and time might neutralize their superiority and lead to disastrous consequences."

Litvinov declared that the material aid received from England and America, valuable as it was, had not yet "come into scale with the scope of operations."

"There is now, however, every ground for hoping that this situation will be changed in the near future," he said, "and that Hitler will have to relinquish his pet idea of war on one front only."

He said there could be no doubt that if the Nazi machine had been diverted from the eastern front when the Red army held the initiative "the whole military situation might have been changed."

"This moment," he added, "was allowed to slip. Let us hope the lesson has not been in vain."

Loss of Three More Vessels Is Announced

U. S., Argentine, Panamanian Ships Go Down in Atlantic.

By The Associated Press.
The sinking of four and perhaps five more ships in the Atlantic reported yesterday—including a freighter of neutral Argentina—demonstrated grimly that Adolf Hitler wasn't fooling when he ordered his submarine commanders to tighten their shipping blockade north of the West Indies and Ireland and east to Europe.

The order is "effective" on Friday, said the sinking of the four ships, including three United Nations vessels, brought the announced toll in the Atlantic and adjacent waters to 293 for the Allies since Pearl Harbor.

Increasing evidence that foreign subs were sowing mines in waters close to the Atlantic coast was reported by survivors of a large American cargo ship, who said their vessel sank in three minutes after striking a mine last Wednesday.

Third Mate Irving C. Leetz, one of 44 survivors landed at an east coast port, said the ship turned over so quickly after ramming into the mine that there was no time to launch lifeboats.

In Buenos Aires the sinking of the 4,800-ton Argentine freighter Rio Tercero was reported, but Foreign Minister Guinazu said he did not know whether it had been torpedoed or had struck a mine.

Details were lacking but it was believed the captain and the entire crew had been rescued.

From Belem, Brazil, there was reported the torpedo sinking of the 4,954-ton United States ship Columbian and the Panamanian ship Cardinas.

Thirty-four survivors of the Cardinas arrived at Port Salinas and related that their ship was sunk by an Italian sub, the ship was first reported as the Argentine-owned Cardinas.

There were no details of the Columbian, which was said to have been attacked in the south Atlantic.

At Barbados, British West Indies, nine crewmen of a torpedoed allied vessel arrived and were met by the United States consul. Three lifeboats with other crew members have not been accounted for.

More than 100 seamen and passengers were lost in last week's attacks on 25 merchant ships but at least 650 were rescued. More than 80 were reported missing.

Nine Sub Shells Are Pitched On Oregon Coast

No Damage Is Done in Firing by Enemy Craft.

SEASIDE, Ore., June 22.—(AP)—A submarine, presumably Japanese and big enough to operate 5,000 miles from home, pitched nine shells of an estimated 60 pounds each onto the sand dunes that wrinkle the Oregon coastline from the Columbia river south to this resort town, a survey disclosed today.

In this area is Fort Stevens, sentinel guarding the mouth of the nation's second largest river. Colonel Carl S. Doney, commander of the Columbia river harbor defenses, said some of the shells landed in the proximity of the reservation—"too damned close."

Second Shelling.
It was the second such shelling on the western North American coast since Saturday night. Estevan Point, on Vancouver Island, was shelled Saturday night. It was first supposed that one submarine lofted shells at a government radio station, but at Ottawa today Defense Minister J. L. Ralston told the house of commons that two or more enemy submarines probably participated.

Nobody was injured by the 15-minute Seaside bombardment starting at 11:30 p. m. Pacific war time, Sunday, June 22, eastern war time, today, and no military or civilian structures were damaged, but some of the shells burst within 500 yards of the Jean Heffling farm home.

Fragments Studied.
Fragments found in craters indicated to Colonel Doney that the projectiles were of high velocity, low trajectory, fired from a submarine several miles offshore. The pattern of craters indicated the sub drifted or sailed about three miles during the bombardment.

One shell fell near a recently completed secondary road leading to the reservation, but did not damage it. The crater was about five feet in diameter and part of the fragment sheared a two-inch tree limb and penetrated the trunk eight inches.

Colonel Doney said there was no doubt the shells came from a submarine and that a vigorous air-surface search for the invader was being pressed.

James T. Wood Succumbs at 92

James T. Wood, 92, of 1463 Cameron court, N. E., died yesterday at the residence.

Born in Henry, Va., he had resided in Atlanta for the last several years.

He is survived by a daughter, Miss Mabel Wood; three sons, Raymond Sr., James M. and W. T. Wood; a brother, Charles Wood, and three grandchildren.

The body was taken last night to Norfolk, Va., for funeral services.

Another Argentine Ship Is Reported Torpedoed

BUENOS AIRES, June 22.—(AP) A source close to the Argentine Foreign office said tonight that the national merchant marine had received a report that the Argentine freighter Rio Tercero has been torpedoed.

The Rio Tercero, a freighter of 4,800 gross tons, is the former Italian vessel Fortunella, built in 1912 in England. It was one of the Axis ships docked in Argentine harbors when the war broke out and was taken over by the Argentine merchant marine under arrangements between the two governments.

Little Sub Chaser Blasts at U-Boat During Rescue Trip

By J. NORMAN LODGE.
ABOARD A SUBMARINE CHASER WITH AN ATLANTIC PATROL—(Delayed)—(AP)—"This," said the Navy public relations officer, "will be only an indoctrination cruise and you'll probably find it rather boring."

Within the next half hour and still within sight of an eastern port, a "light" collier was blown up on our left, we had sighted a submarine periscope, dropped eight depth charges, picked up a dozen survivors from the collier, transferred them to a minesweeper 83-foot sub chaser, you can't appreciate what a haul we made and continued on our patrol.

If you've never been to sea in an appreciate what our Coast Guard has are doing. And they're doing it with only the healthy gripe that augurs well for morale.

We left an east coast port shortly after 7 a. m., June 17, after spending the night aboard the cruiser. Heading out to sea to pick up our convoys, we were turning up only about 500 revolutions on our two 600-horsepower motors when the chief of sun, a Finn with 20 years' service with the Coast Guard, shouted:

"Periscope dead ahead."
Spring Into Action.

Instantly, the 12-man crew sprang into action. The machine-guns at port and starboard positions were manned by the cook and engine man, the forward gun was taken in charge by a first class coxswain, the chief machinist's mate unleashed the depth charges aft and two other petty officers stood by the port and starboard charges.

Revolving the full 1,200 turns, the boatman who had sighted the periscope steered directly for the place he had seen the submarine's eye and four minutes later the first of eight cans went overboard.

With a sound reminiscent of a distant thunder, the depth charges exploded. A geyser fully 50 feet high appeared off the stern and our 83-footer left the water momentarily. Again and again the depth charges sought the enemy and as many times the seemingly frail craft leaped into the air.

Suddenly the boatman, who was navigating the chaser, shouted to the ensign, John Dine, a chief petty officer of 18 years' service now temporarily commissioned, "Number 10 just got it."

Number 10 was the collier, 10th ship in line, an interloper for she wasn't listed for our convoy. That was at exactly 7:45 a. m. The next few minutes were the most dramatic of my life and nothing I saw in Europe or on the Atlantic or North sea compares with it. Here is the way my notes read:

"7:45 a. m. collier hit. 7:52, picked up 12 survivors. 8:02, ship turtled, only the rolling chocks showing."

"8:10, ship disappeared, sliding under the running sea like a firm man stretching out on a sofa after a hard day's work."

"8:15, survivors transferred to mine sweeper after being given hot coffee and dry dungarees."

"8:25, convoy now out of sight, we circled seeking oil slicks, then started in pursuit of our convoy. We found no tell-tale oil slicks, evidently the submarine got away."

"8:32, skipping over waves, mostly out of water, we pounded out 18 knots and came within sight of our charges, now running in tandem."

"8:35, crew dismissed from battle stations and the cook, calmly turning from his machineguns, goes below to brew a new urn of coffee."

Later, we were told the collier had struck a mine and had not been torpedoed. Still later, over the radio, we learned that the sweeper to which we had transferred our survivors, had struck a mine en route to port but that all aboard were saved.

The collier, with a crew of 47, had suffered three casualties, two mess boys and a fireman being missing.

No Fuss, No Feathers.
That's the way the Coast Guard, now part of the Navy, works. No fuss, no feathers, solid American youths eager to learn their bit that the seas may be safe for our merchant shipping.

In addition to the submarine menace, especially off the Virginia coast, there also is the added danger of mines, both enemy-sown and our own, which break away from their moorings and drift.

The ship, according to Navy authorities, struck a mine believed to have been sown by an enemy submarine known to have been working in the vicinity of Hampton Roads. It probably was the same submarine that struck the two tankers last Monday off the Virginia coast.

Last week Argentine physicians were reported to have disagreed in part with Castroviejo's recommendation, some of them saying surgical treatment was not necessary and others maintaining that if an operation was performed Castroviejo should do it himself.

In the midst of the controversy Castroviejo left Buenos Aires suddenly and started for Miami.

Production of Cheddar Cheese in State Urged
ATHENS, Ga., June 22.—(AP)—H. B. Henderson, head of the dairy department at the University of Georgia, said today that "high quality American Cheddar cheese can be produced as easily in Georgia as any other part of the U. S.," but only 30,000 pounds were produced in the entire state in 1940, according to the federal Department of Agriculture.

He said "this amount would not go far toward supplying the needs of the three million people living in Georgia."

Miss Frances Lyle, Former Atlantan, To Wed Lt. Naftel

MONTGOMERY, Ala., June 22. Of social interest here and in Atlanta, Ga., is the announcement made today of the engagement of Miss Frances Merriwether Lyle to Albert Jackson Naftel, lieutenant, United States Army.

Miss Lyle is the daughter of Mrs. Edward Lyle, the former Fannie Mathews, and the late Mr. Lyle. She was graduated from Washington Seminary in Atlanta and attended the Semple school in New York city. She made her debut in Atlanta. Miss Lyle is a member of the Junior League in Montgomery and of the Parnassus Club and is a favorite in younger society.

Lieutenant Naftel is the son of Mrs. J. F. Rollins and the late A. J. Naftel. He was graduated from the Barnes school and attended the University of Alabama and Tulane University. He was later graduated from the Atlanta Dental College and is a member of Alpha Tau Omega fraternity. He is a leader among younger men in civic and social life of Montgomery and is a member of Beauvoir Country Club.

Lieutenant Naftel is now on active duty with the Medical Corps and is stationed at the Gunnery school in Harlingen, Texas. The marriage will take place early in July.

The marriage of Miss Jean Lindsay Mundy, of Charlotte, N. C., to Lieutenant Lyman R. Hunter Jr., U. S. A., of Atlanta, took place Saturday evening, May 30 at the little chapel at Emory University. Dr. Russell Bridges officiated and the organ music was presented by Richard Felder.

A formal wedding was originally planned in the Glenwood A. R. P. church in Charlotte, N. C., the church which was started by the bride's mother and father. These plans had to be altered, due to the inability of Lieutenant Hunter to obtain a furlough.

The chapel altar was decorated with Madonna lilies, gladioli and double white larkspur. On each side were candelabra with lighted white tapers. The altar rail was entwined with white gladioli and smilax.

The ushers included Major W. LeRoy Bates, Charles Milwain, Jimmy Milwain and Lewis Gordon Jr. Due to the illness of the bride's father, the family was unable to attend, she was given in marriage by the groom's father. The best man was Jimmy Welch, of Pelham.

The dainty bride wore a gown of white Brussels lace and net over duchess satin. The long train was banded with the Brussels lace. Her finger-tip veil was attached to a coronet of pearls with orange blossoms. Her only ornament was a single strand of pearls, a gift from the groom. She carried a white prayer book, caught with purple-throated orchids and showered with swainsons. The 66-year-old wedding ring used in the ceremony was willed to the groom by his grandmother, the late Mrs. William D. Chambers.

The groom's mother was gowned in periwinkle blue sheer with white accessories. Her flowers were Talisman roses and swainsons. His aunt, Mrs. E. L. Chambers, wore black lace with white accessories, and gardenias. Mr. and Mrs. Chambers came from Parsons, Kan., to attend the wedding.

Immediately following the ceremony a small reception was held at the home of the groom's parents.

The couple left for Craig Field, Selma, Ala., where Lieutenant Hunter is stationed as an aviation instructor of advanced flying.

Miss Debnam Will Be Honored.

Miss Monter Debnam, whose marriage to John Hinkle will take place Saturday at St. Mark church, will be honored tomorrow at a miscellaneous shower.

Hostesses will be Mrs. Roy Chamlee and Mrs. Lane Dolvin at the home of the latter on McLynn avenue. Forty guests have been invited.

Pastel flowers will be used as the decorations throughout the home and the tea table will be adorned with crystal and silver.

Last Saturday, Miss Edna L. Johnson entertained at a bridge-luncheon and cosmetic shower at the Henry Grady hotel in honor of Miss Debnam.

Guests included Mesdames Lorraine Hardage, Lane Dolvin, H. M. Williams, Robert Smith, W. M. Debnam, Misses Mary Anne Kernan, Frances Dominick and Gena Modena.

Mrs. Dan Wells was hostess at a kitchen shower at her home in West End for Miss Debnam and Mrs. Sidney Smith Jr. entertained at her home for the bride-to-be at bridge-party and handkerchief shower, recently.

Miss Freeman Weds Mr. Young.

An announcement of interest is that made today of the marriage of Miss Mary Elizabeth Freeman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Freeman, and John Charlton Young, which took place on June 7 at St. Luke's Episcopal church. Bishop-elect John Moore Walker officiated at 3 o'clock in the presence of only members of the two families.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, and was becomingly gowned in a powder blue ensemble with navy accessories, and she carried a white satin prayer book showered with lilies of the valley. Mrs. Frank Kneisel was the matron of honor and Vernon Gould was the best man.

The couple left for a wedding trip to the mountains and will reside at 794 Piedmont avenue. Mr. Young is connected with the War Department.

Walt Disney Will Film New Movie on Air Power

By Louella Parsons.

HOLLYWOOD, June 21.—(INS)—Exceedingly interesting is the word Walt Disney will film Major Alexander P. DeSeversky's "Victory Through Air Power," one of the most talked of books of the day. When I talked with Walt he said that after weeks of negotiating he had closed a deal for the major's book. Because of the extreme timeliness of the theme, Disney hopes to have "Victory Through Air Power" ready for fall release.

DeSeversky's theory has been the subject of much comment. He believes that when the United Nations turn their full air strength to Berlin, Tokyo and other Axis cities complete victory will be realized. With this idea in mind,

Women of Lidice Take Their Place As Symbols of Nazi Horror

The Office of War Information today issued the following statement:
The women of the little Bohemian village of Lidice were wives two weeks ago. Today, they are widows.
Imprisoned in Nazi concentration camps, their husbands murdered by the Gestapo, their children torn from their arms and herded into Nazi "education centers," the women of Lidice symbolize the sufferings of the women of all occupied Europe at the hands of Hitler.

A TOWN 600 YEARS OLD

Their town, near Prague, had stood, through war and peace, for at least 600 years. Mention of Lidice, and of the castle for which it was named, appeared in musty annals of the year 1309. St. Margaret's church, to which they took their children on the Sabbath, had dominated Lidice for more than 200 years. As wives of men who worked in the coal mines in the village mill, the women of Lidice led simple lives. They had three shops to choose from in doing their buying, one of them run by a woman, Marie Mastalova. Their town also had three inns, a shoemaker's shop, a tailor's shop, a blacksmith shop, and a wheelmaker's shop. Their men were traditionally craftsmen, carvers of fine furniture, and their homes were filled with heirlooms.

The women of Lidice had committed no crime—except the crime of remaining patriotic to a wanted to be free of brutal Nazi rule. But they chanced to live not far from the winding road where Hitler's chief terrorist, Reinhard ("The Hangman") Heydrich, was fatally shot. So the Berlin radio colony told what happened to women and to their village: "All male inhabitants have been shot. The women have been transferred to a concentration camp. The children have been taken to educational centers. All houses of Lidice have been leveled to the ground, and the name of this community has been obliterated. Lidice had 483 inhabitants."

The men of Lidice are dead, but the women of Lidice live as symbols of Nazi horror in the further horror of a concentration camp. Their story is typical of the dark chapter now being written in the history of the women of the world—a chronicle of executions without cause, slavery, child suffering, starvation, told as often by Berlin and the radio stations it controls as by the enemies of the Axis.

In a list of more than 300 persons, exclusive of the men of Lidice, executed in groups as a result of the Heydrich assassination there have been at least 56 women.
As reported by the Prague radio, the names and the crimes of these women were lumped off in a casual fashion. For instance, Marie Borovska, of Vratimov, district of Frydek, whose name fell between numbers 4 to 7 on one day's execution list, was among those said to have "approved of the attempt against Heydrich or appealed for the support of the perpetrators." "Zdenka, of Prague, a Jewess," was listed among those sentenced "for illegal possession of arms." Marie Karaskova, of Tynec, was among those who "were not registered with the police or who took part in acts hostile to the Reich or gave shelter to such persons."

A SEQUEL TO OTHER MASSACRES

The Nazi murders, because of Heydrich's death were bloody sequels to the massacres that took place under Heydrich's living. In the occupied countries, children have not been spared the "lesson" of what it means to live under Nazi rule. A London broadcast on the day of Heydrich's funeral ran: "The horrors of Reinhard Heydrich's reign in Poland are disclosed. School children were forced to watch executions on gallows set up in every town. Hundreds of Poles were executed for every German killed."

And childhood under the Nazis has also been subjected to slower tortures. The children of Greece are starving in great numbers. One authentic eye-witness account contained this sentence: "Young children, very thin, with dull eyes, weep while asking you for something to eat." In Norway, child mortality is three or four times normal, the Stockholm radio says. Germany is drafting its own children under 15 years of age to work in the fire departments at night.

The execution of women in broadcasts from Europe are references to women in great numbers being sent into Germany as labor slaves. NORWEGIAN WOMEN SENT TO GERMANY

The Quisling government of Norway is conscripting women both to work in the fish packing plants of Trondheim and Bodø, and to be sent into Germany to take the place of 70,000 men who have been transferred for fortification work. On the day of the Heydrich funeral, General Froelich Hansen, commander of Quisling's labor service, was in Berlin consulting, so the German-controlled radio announced, on "the tasks and objectives of the Reich labor service." Before leaving Norway, Hansen had announced that compulsory labor service for all women between the ages of 18 and 23 years would be introduced next spring. The Nazi-controlled radio at Oslo revealed that 60 work camps for women will be established in Norway this summer. In the fish factories, Norwegian women are forced to help process the Norwegian fish catch into frozen filets to be sent to the Germans in a specially constructed refrigerator ship, the Oldenburg. Ninety per cent of the Norwegian fish catch is now going to Germany.

FRENCH FACTORIES ROBBED OF WORKERS

Hundreds of French factories were closed down last week by the Laval government so that French workers could be sent to Germany as "war slaves." The London radio said. Simultaneously Gerlin was broadcasting: "All other interests must at present take second place compared with the necessity to reserve existing female labor for munitions plants."

A Vichy broadcast informed: "The third contingent of workers and of women from the region of Athens is about to arrive in Germany to work in the war industries." From an official Finnish broadcast came this: "The first contingent of women and girls left Helsinki to spend the summer doing agricultural work." Girls and women from 14 to 60 have been ordered to register for industrial work in Hungary, an official broadcast announced. Two hundred and fifty thousand Polish women have been put at forced labor in Germany, and one-fourth are working on farms, Berlin said.

Berlin also is authority for this announcement: "A number of Latvian girls, from 18 to 25 years old, have recently arrived from Riga to work as farm and industrial hands in northern Germany. All of them concluded contracts with the German employment office in Riga and will stay in the Reich for one year. The German labor front will care for the girls by controlling their working conditions and organizing their leisure time."

That this is all a part of an accelerating movement is indicated by a Moscow broadcast which ran as follows: "In the towns and villages of the Ukraine, German officials are forcibly seizing girls and young women and sending them off to Germany. These victims are by the thousands being shipped to work in German factories and on large estates. The enslaved are taken on special trains under the escort of S. S. detachments. Many trainloads of Ukrainian women were sent into Germany during the winter. Since the advent of spring, more trains are being sent off with increasing frequency. Train follows train, carrying off the women who will have to toil like slaves for German manufacturers and landowners."

Today's Charm Tip

If budgeting calls for cutting corners on meat and groceries, there always can be that attractively set table to aid digestion and make food taste better.

You are helping some woman's husband or son have a fighting chance on the front line every time you buy a War Bond or Stamp.

Your home front is the "pledge front" if you're a housewife. Ten per cent of your household budget should be earmarked for War-Savings Stamps.

Wife Unfaithful to Husband Is Poor Risk for Any Man

By Dixie George.

Dear Dixie:

I am a 46-year-old man. I married in 1917 and my wife began drinking in 1937. She claimed to be ill, and I had her examined by my doctor and he said she was all right, except she liked the effects of alcohol. I was not satisfied with that and I sent her to a specialist and he said there was nothing he could do about it. I tried to reason with her by telling her what her fate would be, and she would stop for a few days and then begin again. She would stay drunk for as long as two weeks at a time and I would stay with her thinking, perhaps, she was sick and I could do something to stop her drinking.

In 1938 she became so repulsive I could not bear to touch her. I could see the end of our married life and home not far away. Our money went first, our home next. She insisted in working at the business while drunk and I gave up in 1940, left her and went to work. She has passed out of my life entirely and I will have my divorce soon.

I am in love with a married woman of 28 who has three children. I met her in a business when you have an actual illustration what this woman will do while the wife of another man, it seems to me you would be a bit careful in asking her to marry you. And another thing, perhaps her husband will not give her one. Had

But I wonder if you have searched your own mind and heart and satisfied yourself that it was nothing you had ever done which caused your wife to take to drinking?

As for this woman you are in love with at the present, it seems to me that you would be a little slow in asking her to get a divorce to marry you. True, she has been going with you, but that does not prove that she will leave her husband in order to marry you. It is possible that she is only playing around with you. There are a lot of women of this caliber. I am sorry to say, who will two-time their husbands and expect said husbands to remain true to them.

And another thing it seems to me that you should be a bit suspicious of this woman and her affections. Are you sure that after she marries you—of course, assuming that she will—she will not meet some other man for whom she will display the same affection and interest that he has toward you? It is hard enough to look into the future and size up a husband or a wife's character, but when you have an actual illustration what this woman will do while the wife of another man, it seems to me you would be a bit careful in asking her to marry you. And another thing, perhaps her husband will not give her one. Had you ever thought of that? Better take it easy with her for awhile and let her make the first move toward getting the divorce.

THE TRADITION OF A GRANDFATHER'S CLOCK...

To the most minute detail, it perpetuates the creative genius of Goddard, the master who made the original... the block wood base, the shell carvings on the door, the rich glow of its mellow mahogany finish... so typical of the 1760-80 era. The original of this clock is in the Edison Institute, in Dearborn, Mich. This heirloom piece in the vast collections in

"IT'S A KILLER"

MY DAY: More Aid For College Students

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON, Sunday.—Yesterday was a very quiet day and I spent most of it catching up on mail. In the late afternoon we had a meeting of people interested in the International Student Service.

There was a very interesting editorial in one of the metropolitan papers on Thursday. It brought up the much discussed question of public schools in England. These schools, which correspond to our most exclusive boarding schools, are giving consideration to changes for the future.

Some of our educators, who are concerned about real freedom of opportunity in education, are also thinking about what we should do for the education of the poor. In several of the bigger cities where tuition is free to the citizens of that city. There are state universities where tuition is free to the young people of the state. Board and lodging is still a considerable expense, however, so we have many young people who give up obtaining a college education because financially it is too much of a burden.

That is why some of us have been so much interested in the National Youth Advancement program. As well as to graduate students. I agree with the writer of the editorial that: "A democracy needs leaders, influential by talent and by character. The wider the basis of choice, the more successful the democracy will be and the more capable of resisting the vulgar fuhrerprinzip which now afflicts so great a part of the world."

To do this, however, there will have to be a system of grants to students who are worthy of obtaining higher education, otherwise this type of education is available only to those whose families are able to pay for it.

A letter has just come to me on the value of milk powder. Milk in this form can be shipped long distances and still retain its nutritive value. It is cheap. But not whole milk. As a sub-family head, I want to say at once that I am one of those who like milk just as it comes, but I also believe that there is great need at present for the education of the young people in the use of processed food in general. If you cannot get good clean, whole milk, you should get powdered milk, since it will provide your family with the necessary nutritive values.

Calcium May Relieve Frozen Shoulder

By Dr. William Brady.

Chemical analysis of the blood fails to show any consistent change in the amount of uric acid present normally from the amount present in gout. In short "gout" or a "tendency" to gout is today a charitable name for a metabolic disorder. The faulty calcium metabolism which is nearly always found in chronic arthritis and bursitis is of uncertain significance but to judge from the many reports received from sufferers a substantial degree of improvement in the condition occurs in many cases after the diet has been supplemented with a suitable daily ration of calcium and vitamin D.

Your Horoscope for Today

By ALICE DENTON JENNINGS, Noted Atlanta Astrologist.

What today means to you if you were born between:

March 21st and April 19 (ARIES)—Repressive influences may prevail today. Be determined in the face of difficulty. Keep cheerful regardless. The best aspects of the day operate after 11 A. M.

April 20th and May 20th (TAURUS)—The influences predominating today bring an optimistic and hopeful frame of mind making this a favorable day for attending to affairs that call for aggressiveness, initiative and muscular energy.

May 21st and June 20th (GEMINI)—Before 4:30 P. M. is a period of mental, physically and emotionally. Consequently, misjudgments, irritations and drastic remarks should be carefully guarded against.

June 21st and July 22nd (CANCER)—It might be well to give business and social associates every consideration before 5:12 P. M. for you are apt to encounter a let-down feeling with co-workers which may retard matters.

July 23rd and August 22nd (LEO)—You may find this a hard day when you may be called to task for something, but if you will give your strict attention to necessities, this can be made a most favorable period.

August 23rd and September 22nd (VIRGO)—This is a very favorable day for entertaining, and for people of means. You can make steady progress in matters that concern your personal welfare.

September 23rd and October 22nd (LIBRA)—The period previous to 3:34 P. M. favors dealings with the opposite sex, the adoption of new methods in connection with your

Some time this spring I said one thing they can ration for me is sugar-coating the facts.

The American public can look the facts in the face like a stout lady on a drugstore scale.

Only the dictators have to lie to their citizens. That's because their racket is double-entry bookkeeping. They show the public the doctored set of books.

If you want proof of what happens to a washed-up dictator, take Mussolini. The man with the deep-dish chin doesn't mean any more than a buttonhole on a bronze statue. He is strictly ornamental.

Pastors Pledge Aid in Drive For War Fund

$354,000 To Be Sought in Fulton, Rockdale, DeKalb Counties.

By THOMAS M. ELLIOTT.

Seventy-five of Atlanta's leading ministers were guests yesterday of the United War Work Fund at a luncheon, and were informed of the special campaign to be promoted in Atlanta, Fulton, DeKalb and Rockdale counties in July when numerous relief funds will be consolidated in one total sum to be used for relief of American soldiers and their world allies. It was stated $354,000 will be sought, and the ministers pledged themselves to present the appeal to their churches.

Julian Harrison, general chairman of the fund, presided. William E. Mitchell, co-chairman, presented Carl Wolfe as speaker, who explained all details of the united campaign, and stated the amounts to be apportioned to each. According to Wolfe's itemized list of apportionments, the $350,000 will be distributed as follows: United Service Organizations, $153,000, $25,000 of which is to be used in Atlanta recreational projects; $5,000 for prisoners' relief; through the Y. M. C. A., $5,000 for the American Ambulance Corps; $25,000 for the Navy Relief Society; $128,000 for the five foreign relief activities listed as British War Relief, Russian War Relief, Greek War Relief, United China Relief, and the Queen Wilhelmina Dutch Relief Fund, and the $16,000 for administrative costs.

Plans were adopted relative to promoting attendance at the war work mass meeting to be held next Sunday afternoon at the auditorium, when addresses will be made by Admiral Glassford, James A. Farley and Preston S. Arkwright.

Government Officials Will Address Civilians

Addresses by officials of the OPA and the Treasury Department will feature the convention of Civitan International opening June 28 at St. Petersburg, Fla., President H. Z. Hopkins said here yesterday.

Hopkins said that "regardless of statements to the contrary," the convention would proceed as scheduled, adding "The Office of Defense Transportation has been fully informed of our plans, and our program has been streamlined to conform with the government's war policy."
